SOME say vaccination is not useful or necessary. Consider a case made public by Dr. Matthias Nicoll, New York State Health Commissioner.

Forty-three cases of smallpox have recently developed in New York. In one case all members of a large family except one were vaccinated. The one said he was healthy, didn't believe in smallpox, had conscientious objections. They gave him his choice, vaccination or twenty days' quarantine. He took the quarantine and before the twenty days ended had developed a serious case of smallpox. All of his family, also exposed to the contagion but vaccinated, had no smallpox. That fact outweighs a good deal of theory.

SENATOR CARAWAY, who controlled the Arkansas delegation in the last Democratic convention, says: "Governor Smith cannot be elected President because he is a Catholic, and a wet," and adds, "If Governor Smith were a Baptist, Methodist, or Presbyterian, he could be elected President but his Catholicism is against him.

REPUBLICANS will be glad that this is said by a Democratic Senator, not by a Republican. A similar remark by the Reverend Burchard cost James G. Blaine the Presidency. Senator Caraway professes to believe that a Democrat will be elected president in 1928, not McAdoo or Smith but one whose name is now not mentioned.

He is mistaken about that. If the Democratic convention rejects Governor Smith, solely because he is a Catholic, no Democrat will be elected in 1928.

THE STRENGTH of Governor Al Smith is underestimated by some of his Democratic brethren. He knows politics, and has many influential friends throughout the nation. The

Because of a threatening fog and unfavorable weather, the navy dirigible Los Angeles today failed to leave her hangar at Lakehurst, N. J. for the scheduled three-day New England cruise. The trip will be begun tomorrow if weather conditions permit, and Boston will probably see the big airship on Wednesday.

The cruise was scheduled to start today, but the threat of a heavy fog caused officials to postpone departure. Newport, R. I., will be the headquarters for the New England flight. The Los Angeles will cruise along the coast as far North as Bar Harbor, Me.

o information on the resut of the search was given out.

The opening of the Citizens' Military Training Camp today, which is attended by young men from eighteen to twenty-one years of age, was believed to be the reason for the special drive against liquor at this time.

AMERICA'S BRITISH M. P. AND TWO OF HER THREE SONS

MICHAEL

LADY NANCY ASTOR
Interviewed in Boston today she quoted those in favor of cancellation of war debts, said America was on the water wagon for keeps, defended the "modern girl," condemned the so-called "typical girl" and declared mothers responsible for those who fall by the wayside. She took her children over to Charlestown to climb Bunker Hill Monument.

JOHN JACOB
Youngest of Lady Astor's family, John Jacob is enthusiastic over this, his first visit to Boston and historic centres.

Brimming with enthusiasm for her native land, and with a well-formed opinion on everything under the sun except the Mexican situation, Lady Nancy Astor, British M. P. and one of the beautiful Langhorne sisters of Virginia, arrived in Boston today.

Accompanied by three of her sons and her eighteen-year-old daughter Phyllis, Lady Astor arrived on the Cunard liner Samaria for a month's vacation with her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson, at Dark Harbor, Me.

The Astors with their retinue of servants were met on the dock by Mr. Gibson and taken on a tour of the historical points of Boston before leaving on the Bangor boat this afternoon for Maine.

Although Lady Astor is quite familiar with this city, having lived here as the wife of Robert Gould Shaw before her divorce in 1903, it was the first visit of the children and their mother insisted they see everything of interest.

Before departing on the tour the

Helen Wills Leading Popularity Contest

Ladies first! Helen Wills has taken the lead in the Boston Evening American's Popularity Contest, with 169 votes on the first count.

In the tidal waves of ballots which broke over the contest editor from the great ocean of sport fans, ladies were also fourth and eleventh, proving that the stronger sex has a monopoly of neither athletic excellence nor favor.

Miss Wills, America's premiere tennis player is now 45 votes ahead of the Big Bambino of Baseball, George Herman Ruth, most prominent member of the New York Yankees. George has 124 votes, 23 in advance of Bobby Jones, hailed as the world's greatest golfer.

Then follows Miss Glenna Collett, the Queen of the Links whose count totals 77.

Jack Dempsey is seventh with but 22 giving way before those just mentioned and Charlie Paddock and Ralph De Palma two speed kings of different sorts.

The eleventh contestant, and the third girl to be honored thus far is a local favorte, none other than the Boston Swimmng Associaton's stellar all round athletic, Katherine Mearls.

U. S. GIRL SWIMS IN CHANNEL

Claribelle Barrett

Dover, Eng., Aug. 2 (A.P.).—Miss Claribelle Barrett of New York started from Dover at 8 o'clock today in an effort to swim the English Channel to the French coast. The weather was excellent.

The girl began with an overhand stroke and a crawl kick.

She was eight miles out from the shore and swimming strongly at 11:20 o'clock. A launch accompanied her.

At 1 o'clock this afternoon, five hours after entering the water, Miss Barrett was twelve miles out, on a straight line between Dover and Calais.

She had thus negotiated half the distance in almost record time and was still going strong. Weather conditions were still favorable and her chances of success seemed good. Should she succeed, she would be the first woman to swim the channel.

MEXICANS JAIL TEN PRIESTS ON CHARGE OF PROPERTY 'THEFT'

Durango, Durango, Mexico, Aug. 2 (I.N.S.).—Ten priests were in jail here today on charges of misappropriating church vestments, candelabra and sacred images. They were jailed by civil authorities acting on orders of the Federal government.

Several civilians who openly sponsored the views of the church were arrested with the priests. They were released after a reprimand by the authorities.

The arrests caused a sensation in Durango. Women surrounded the jail and peeped anxiously through the windows. They dispersed after being assured that the priests were being detained because of their reluctance to comply with government regulation.

Following reports received at the military headquarters that an Indian uprising had broken out at Santiago, Papasquiaro, against the new laws, troops were dispatched to the scene. It is in this territory that the rebel chief Galindo, erstwhile comrade of Villa, is operating.

HUB SHIP RUNS ON ROCK WITH 86 SOULS ABOARD

Vineyard Haven, Aug. 2.—Eighty-six persons, sixteen passengers and the crew of seventy men of the Shipping Board steamer Governor John Lind, are today the helpless victims of sea and fog on Hedge Fence Shoal, while Coast Guard craft stand alongside powerless to aid until high tide comes in.

The sound of fog sirens from the coastguard craft, usually a menace at sea, is the one cheering note that drifts through the fog to the stranded ship. The coastguardsmen are confident everybody on board is safe at present, and high water will enable the rescuers to get near enough to take off the passengers and crew and possibly save the steamer itself.

The steamer, loaded with sugar, was bound to Boston from Porto Rico, and ran ashore only a stone's throw from the wreck of the Point Hunter, which was dashed to pieces in 1918.

Coastguard cutter 131, the Ossipee, from Base 18 was first to reach the stricken ship, and she was joined by three patrol boats from Woods Hole.

SEEK CULT WITNESSES IN HALL-MILLS PROBE

Somerville, N. J., Aug. 2 (I.N.S.).—The search for new witnesses in the murders of the Rev. Edward W. Hall, New Brunswick pastor, and Mrs. Eleanor Mills, his choir singer sweetheart, will include today a colony of religious workers known as "The Pillar of Fire," or "Zarapets," located at Zarapath, N. J.

Mrs. Virginia de Leon Harding, of Milwaukee, "surprise" witness in the renewed investigation into the four-year-old crime, was reported to have been formerly a member of the cult.

A conference at the office of State Senator Alexander Simpson, in Jersey City, has been called for today to outline the fight of the newly appointed special prosecutor.

BODIES TO BE EXHUMED.

Exhuming of the bodies of Hall and Mrs. Mills, for a thorough autopsy, will be one of the first demands of Simpson.

CATHOLICS URGE ORDER.

Churches in Durango will be taken over Monday, according to Prosecuting Attorney Quintero. Churches at present are being guarded by soldiers and police.

Plans calling for a demonstration against the foreign element were suppressed by authorities. Catholic leaders persuaded their followers to stand aloft from any display of violence.

American Consul Meyers said that he felt sure the authorities would be able to meet the situation fully, and did not anticipate any trouble.

Mexican Trouble May Be Long Drawn Out

Mexico City, Aug. 2 (I.N.S.)—Early efforts to effect peace between the Mexican government and the Catholic church have failed, it was reported today.

Although no official statement has been made it is reported that members of the diplomatic corps in Mexico City have made overtures, intimating to the Mexican government that they would be willing to use their good offices as intermediaries. Such overtures have brought no response from the government.

While there are many rumors that the Church dignitaries are willing for mediation, it is said semi-officially that the Government's attitude is that there is nothing to mediate, since it is merely enforcing laws which are upon the statute books and that the only way in which the Government policy can be changed is through legislation.

The absence of physical violence and the stern stand taken by the Government leads many here to believe that the struggle will be long drawn out.

The closing of the church of San Jose Degarcia, a Protestant Episcopal church, supported by organizations in the United States, is understood to have been directed by the Government as an indication that its policies are not directed at the Catholic Church alone.

Frustration of the alleged plot for the assassination of President Calles has led to strengthening of the Government's police efforts, but the tension which on Saturday and Sunday was electric did not appear quite so great today.

150,000 in Labor Parade Support Calles

Mexico City, Aug. 2. (Universal)—Organized labor manifested its adhesion to the religious policy of the Calles administration with the most imposing parade since Francisco Madero was welcomed to Mexico City after overthrowing the perennial President, Porfirio Diaz.

More than 150,000 workers affiliated with the Mexican Federation of Labor paraded the principal streets of the capital from seven o'clock in the morning until two in the afternoon, displaying thousands of black flags and banners with huge lettered placards announcing support for the government and opposition to Catholicism and reactionary movements.

But there was comparatively little animation and enthusiasm for it was staged in strangly empty streets. There were ten times more paraders than spectators.

Prior to the parade it became known that the archbishopric had ordered Catholics to refrain from manifesting any kind of opposition or disapproval, and above all not to watch it from the streets. The lack of crowds to a certain degree cast a wet blanket over the event.

At Catholic headquarters it was stated that thousands participated in the parade against their will and under the threat of loss of employment in case of their refusal to march.

Red Cross, police and Confederacion Regional Obrera Mexicana, (Mexican Federation of Labor) ambulances were clanging along the streets everywhere but were called upon for nothing more serious than to serve out thousands of drinks of water to the thirsty marchers and occasionaly pull an apparently exhausted elderly man from the ranks and let him ride.

Eight Arrested in Plot to Kill Calles

Special Cable to Universal Service.

Mexico City, Aug. 2.—A plot to assassinate President Calles was uncovered through the able work of government detectives, according to a story published exclusively by the Excelsior.

Dolores Lemus, a sixteen-year-old girl, employed in the municipal offices, together with seven men and women alleged accomplices have been arrested. Dolores has been pointed out as the one selected to do the actual killing.

Pope Is Celebrant at Mass for Mexicans

Rome, Aug. 2 (Universal).—The Pauline Chapel at St. Peter's was crowded when Pope Pius celebrated mass of propitiation for the Catholics in Mexico.

The services were punctuated by the sobs of women members of the Mexican colony in Rome.

Crowds gathered at all the churches here to express a request to His Holiness for an hours devotion to the "Eucharistic Lord," who, according to Cardinal Capitosta, "is glorified in the United States and all other parts of the world, but expelled from Mexico."

Father Lopez Says Roman Church Seeks Calles Downfall

Mexico City, Aug. 2 (I.N.S.).—The Roman Catholic church in Mexico, working under orders from the Vatican, is fostering the development of an economic crisis with the object of causing the overthrow of the government of President Calles, today charged Father A. Lopez, general secretary of the Mexican Schismatic Catholic Church.

In an exclusive statement to International News Service, Father Lopez made a complete exposition of the policy and plan of action of this branch of the Catholic Church since the roman episcopate announced its proposal to abandon the churches.

Lopez is a brother of Don Domingo Sierra, under whom President Calles received his boyhood [illegible] and possibly his religious views. Lopez asserted that in the [illegible] district [illegible] pared to abandon the [illegible] and predicted that within two years [illegible] the dominant ecclesiastical institution of the country.

$11 for Seats at Barrymore Film Premiere

New York, Aug. 2.—Some of the expense of staging spectacular movie creations is on the way to be shouldered by first nighters. Those avid enthusiasts for gazing on "first filmings" will pay heavy toll for the privilege. The first evidence of the high cost of first nighting was given with the advance sale of tickets for John Barrymore's premier of "Don Juan" next Friday. Tickets will cost exactly $11 each, just twice as much as the best price for last season.

COOLIDGE GOING TO VERMONT

Paul Smiths, N. Y., Aug. 2.—President Coolidge's program for this week is understood to be indefinite pending decision as to whether he will go to Plymouth, Vt., on Wednesday or Thursday for a visit of several days amid the scenes of his boyhood. On Tuesday Harvey S. Firestone, Jr., son of the Akron, O., rubber manufacturer, is to call for a discussion of the possibilities of rubber production in the Philippines. Mr. Firestone recently visited the islands. At 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon Mr. Coolidge will make a radio address from White Pines Camp, the occasion being Colorado's celebration of her fiftieth anniversary as a State.

The President's voice will be carried over long distance telephone wires to Denver, where it will be put on the air.

President Coolidge is expected to appoint soon a successor to Frederick A. Fenning, resigned as a commissioner of the District of Columbia. It is indicated the new commissioner will not be one who has been a storm centre of local politics in Washington. Mr. Fenning resigned at the request of the President after his practices as an attorney in war veterans guardianship cases had been investigated.

Mr. Coolidge today had as guests at luncheon the Rev. William F. McDowell of Washington, bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Diocese of Maryland, and Mrs. McDowell.

Another caller was Marcus B. Toney of Nashville, Tenn., an eighty-six-year-old Confederate veteran, who urged the President to attend the dedication of the Blue and Gray Monument at Nashville in September.

ACTRESS SLAIN, CHUM HELD

Mount Holly, N. J., Aug. 2 (I.N.S.).—Pearl McSherry, a New York actress spending the Summer with two girl companions in a cottage at Brown's Mills, a small hamlet near here, was shot and killed early today.

Police are holding Betty Queen, one of the dead girl's companions. A shotgun was used in the slaying.

Dorina O'Connor, the third girl living in the cottage, told the authorities, they said, that she heard Miss McSherry and Miss Queen quarrelling violently in an adjoining room.

'MODERN GIRL' DEFENDED BY LADY ASTOR

British noblewoman talked with reporters, her keen witticisms and shrewd, stright-from-the-shoulder remarks demonstrating how she managed to keep the House of Parliament in a turmoil on occasions.

In the brief time at her command Lady Astor praised the modern girl, denounced the "typical" girl, blamed mothers for girls who go wrong, declared total disarmament to be madness, favored the cancellation of war debt and hailed prohibition as "a moral means toward attainment."

Her long stay in England has equipped Lady Astor with a number of colloquialisms, some of which puzzled the reporters, as, for instance, when she declared vigorously: "The girls of today are free from tosh."

She was dressed in a navy blue ensemble, the coat lined with Oriental print, with a navy blue crepe de chine blouse and skirt, fawn-colored hose and black patent leather pumps. She wore a small black felt hat, turned up at one side and fastened with a buckle of brilliants, and a heavy rope of pearls was around her neck.

RETAINS BEAUTY.

A charming woman, still beautiful, with a smile that made everyone she met her friend, Lady Astor went through the customs without difficulty, blithely remarking that she had $185, which should do me for one day."

"America has more peace societies than any country in the world," she began, "and you don't get peace with peace societies, you know.

"It is seeing what is wrong in one's country in order to find the cause and remove it which makes for peace. The world doesn't want war, it wants peace. Just to sit back and hope for peace is not the way. Peace doesn't come that way.

"Total disarmament is madness. No sane or right thinking person ever wants total disarmament. It is an ideal to work up to, but total disarmament right now would be just like getting rid of your police force."

Questioned about the girls of today, Lady Astor said she had no fear for them.

"There is no such thing as a moral decline among the modern girls," she asserted. "Girls are much more natural, much freer, they know what they are doing, and what things are about."

GETS ONE SURPRISE.

The visitor seemed surprised when told American girls smoked and drank.

"I can't believe it," she declared. "Catch my daughter doing anything like that!

"It is the mother's fault. If girls are bad, the home training is bad. I never had cocktails when I was a girl. My father saw to that."

Asked if she expected to make her daughter a typical English girl, Lady Astor became more positive than ever.

"I don't believe in types," she said. "Typical girls are horrid. I wouldn't want my daughter to be a typical American or a typical English girl. Anything 100 per cent. American or 100 per cent. English I want to steer clear of.

"It is true that girls are growing more boyish in England," she admitted in response to a question regarding masculine women and feminine men. "But it is better for them to be athletic," she hastened to add.

SEES U. S. "DRY" FOREVER.

At this point the subject of prohibition was brought up. Lady Astor is an ardent dry.

"Prohibition," she said, "is a moral means toward attainment. America will never go back on it, you bet. The next generation will not even think about drink."

Informed she might be shocked by drinking in this country, Lady Astor replied:

"I won't go places where I'll have a shock. I'm only here for rest, and to enjoy a month's vacation with my children. I'm not here as a political authority.

"Of course, prohibition is not a paramount question in England. The coal crisis overshadows everything, but General Andrews is enlisting the co-operation of sane, right-thinking prominent people. I heard that Premier Baldwin was helping him."

At this point Lady Astor was told that arrests for intoxication were increasing in this country.

"I doubt that very much," she replied. "They must be just starting to arrest them now."

"I'm not a social woman," Lady Astor continued. "I am not interested in society in a small scale. I'm interested in the masses, they who make the big society.

"Girls don't frighten me in connection with the so-called moral decline. You will find that girls who are brought up correctly in any home anywhere by earnest parents are always ladies.

"GIRLS FREE FROM TOSH."

"I haven't any ideals for my daughter. I know where she is, I know where she goes. I just want her to be a natural girl. The girls of today are free from tosh."

Discussing the war debt and the alleged anti-American sentiment in England she said:

"A debtor and a creditor are not usually the best of friends. The relation doesn't make for kindly feelings. Although I don't speak with authority because I don't know, I have heard statesmen declare that general cancellation of war debts is politically and economically wise.

"Drunkeness increasing here? Well, they must be starting to arrest them now."

"I haven't any ideals for my daughter, but I know where she is, I know where she goes."

"I never had cocktails when I was a girl. My father saw to that!"

"We must first get industrial arbitration before international arbitration."

"Nothing lets our sex down like running around half-naked. There's no need of talking equality if we use the liberty to show our hideousness."

"If women keep their eyes on their bodies all the time they can't keep them on their souls."

"Bachelors are the only things that make matrimony possible; when wives look at a bachelor they get a little more reconciled to their husbands."

"If an ordinary woman can do what I've done, think what we can expect from an extraordinary one."

TACKLES HALL CASE TODAY

watchman at the New Jersey State College for Women, was released today from Somerset County Jail under $2,500 bail. He was held as a material witness in the resumed investigation of the Hall-Mills murders.

According to investigators, Phillips' story was that on the night the New Brunswick clergyman and Mills were slain, he saw Mrs. Hall return to her home at an hour considerably earlier than the time she said she came back after an unsuccessful search for her absent husband.

"I intend to learn first the real facts of the previous investigation," said Senator Simpson. "I will try to find out what influence, if any, was used to block the inquiry."

Meanwhile, authorities here have been shaken into a new frame of mind with receipt of a message from Mrs. Harding that she can identify a man prominent in the case as one of three men in an automobile who stopped her at the Phillips Farm the morning of the murder.

THREE AUTOS AT SCENE.

Mrs. Harding's assertions agree in one respect with that of Mrs. Jane Gibson, the "pig woman" who has always maintained that she saw three automobiles at the scene of the murders. Mrs. Harding says hers was the third machine.

The man accused by Mrs. Harding leaped in front of her machine, according to her story, and said:

"If you have seen anything and you tell one word about it I'll get you."

When Mrs. Harding, or Mrs. Thomas Mahoney as she was known here, arrives in Somerville she will be confronted by the man she named in a lineup and asked to pick him out. Senator Simpson plans to question Mrs. Harding at great length.

The facts concerning the first investigation with which the prosecutor will deal, as learned exclusively today, are as follows:

1—There was no real effort made to solve the mystery of the identity of the murderers of the Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills at the time.

2—The Grand Jury hearing at Somerville which followed upon the crime was a bungling farce.

3—That Wilbur A. Mott, the deputy attorney-general in charge of the Grand Jury investigation, was appointed only after Mrs. Hall's attorney, Timothy N. Pfeiffer, had written to Governor Edwards, then Governor of New Jersey.

MILLS' PLEAS UNHEEDED.

4—That Pfeiffer publicly expressed satisfaction with Mott's appointment.

5—That no attention had been paid to previous pleas for the appointment of a special prosecutor which had been made by James Mills and his 16-year-old daughter, Charlotte.

6—That the prosecutors both in inquisitions held in their offices and before the Grand Jury itself savagely grilled Charlotte Mills, the innocent victim of the tragedy, about her appeal for a special prosecutor and warned her to keep quiet.

7—That in the Grand Jury investigation and in an investigation which preceded it these things were done:

Dr. William Long, county physician of Somerset County, made a false report as to the extent of Mrs. Mills' injuries. No attempt was made to hold a coroner's inquest.

The fingerprints of Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall were never taken. Neither were the fingerprints of other members of her family under suspicion. Poor James Mills was fingerprinted. Facts of common knowledge in New Brunswick, such as the length of employment as a chauffeur of Peter Tumulty, were not brought to the attention of persons who lied about them to the authorities.

8.—Mrs. Hall was permitted to sit in the ante room of the grand jury and permitted to see all witnesses who testified against her.

9.—Other matters, such as the statement of one detective that when Dr. Hall's glasses were turned over to a finger print expert by one of the detectives working on the case that the astonished fingerprint expert saw the other man wipe the glasses with a silk handkerchief and heard him say:

"These are not fingerprints on these glasses—they are fly specks."

EXHIBITS DISAPPEAR.

10.—That at the height of the investigation and before the Grand Jury met, all of the exhibits, some of the statements and other material were turned over at a secret conference to the representatives of one newspaper—the New York World.

As a consequence of this secret action, detectives working on the case, it is said, had to travel to the branch office of the newspaper at Perth Amboy to refresh their memories and to look at the evidence and statements.

11.—That although special precautions were supposed to be taken, most of the statements and some of the exhibits disappeared.

12—That the pistol of Willie Stevens, a .32-calibre Ivers-Johnson weapon, was mysteriously returned to him.

13—That the minutes of the Grand Jury were not written up and that only the Grand Jury statements of some 20 witnesses were typewritten. From this was excluded the important statement of Mrs. Jane Gibson, the owner of a pig farm, who identified Mrs. Hall, her brother, Willie Stevens, and her cousin, Henry De La Bruyerre carpenter, as having been on the Phillips farm.

14—The countless omissions of necessary acts and the commissions of official countless blunders which effectually blocked the investigation.

It is believed Mrs. Hall will keep to her home until the grand jury has acted; though some of her friends say she intends to stay at Ocean Grove. She has said she may attend the funeral of Col. Jacob J. Janeway, 85, who was president of the Janeway & Carpenter Wall Paper Manufacturing Co. The Carpenders are relatives, and Janeway was an old friend.

2 New Moves in Fight to Save 3 in Death House

2 ALIENISTS MAY QUIZ SLAYER

Executioner Is Notified as Parole Chief Sees Fuller; Flood of Pleas Signed

Two important issues came up in the fight for the lives of the three carbarn bandits today, prior to the crisis that comes with Governor Fuller's decision tomorrow, whether or not to submit the question of commutation of life imprisonment to the executive council.

First, Chairman Frank Brooks of the parole board, after an exhaustive study of the case and interviews with the three, today submitted his report to Governor Fuller. This report is bound to have weight with the Governor.

Second, Attorney Francis A. Juggins, counsel for the three in the battle against the chair, is to confer with Governor Fuller, seeking permission from the executive to allow Dr. I. Green and Dr. Miner Evans, alienists, to examine John J. Devereaux, Jr., as to his mental condition now and at the time of the murder. If the permission is given, the report of the alienists will be submitted to the Governor.

EXECUTIONER NOTIFIED.

Meanwhile the routine of death goes on at State's Prison. Today Warden Hendry sent word to the executioner in New York to hold himself in readiness to come to Boston.

A pathetic sidelight was enacted at the prison today when John J. Devereaux, Sr., walked into the deathhouse. He had many times been the guard in the deathhouse for men awaiting execution; but this time he played the role of heartbroken father.

He had been transferred from the prison to Deer Island just before his son was sent to the deathhouse.

ONLY ONE GUARD.

Devereaux, McLaughlin and Heinlein told their guard today that they had slept well, and they attacked their dropped eggs and coffee as if there was no thought of death before them.

From midnight until 8 a. m. they were in charge of but one guard, as the man assigned as double guard became ill.

Each of the men enjoyed an after-breakfast smoke and then they were visited by Father Murphy, prison chaplain. Their parents followed.

The elder Devereaux and Frank Manning, secretary of the Clemency Committee, conferred with Dist. Atty. O'Brien today to enlist his aid in searching for psychopathic records of young Devereaux.

Manning said the petitions for clemency were being collected today, one of the last signers being former Mayor James M. Curley.

WORKERS SIGN PETITIONS.

The Clemency Committee's quarters in Market street, Brighton, were crowded with volunteer workers, men and women, ready to go out with petitions in a last final drive.

Several factories, where thousands are employed, telephoned requests to have petitions sent at the noon hour, it was announced. These plants included, among others, the Gillette Razor factory, the Foss candy factory and the General Electric plant.

Secretary Manning warned all those who have petitions to return them before 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

VIKING SHIP NOW OFF NEW ENGLAND COAST

Halifax, N. S., Aug. 2 (A.P.)—Captain T. Folgero and three companions, who are making the 5,000-mile trip over the thousand-year-old Viking Trail from Norway to America are believed today to be well down the New England coast bound for the Sesqui-centennial celebration in Philadelphia.

This is reckoned by a report from an isolated fishing village on the Halifax County line, near which the voyagers passed last Wednesday. They are in the tiny open craft Leif Erikson, a copy of the ship that brought the Vikings across the ocean ten centuries ago.

VON WIEGAND IS UNPOPULAR AT DOORN

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND,
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

Berlin, Aug. 2—I visited Doorn the other day and called on the ex-kaiser. American tourists were sitting on the veranda of the little Hotel Pabst a block away, drinking Muenchner Dunkel and creamy Pilsener while waiting to get a glimpse of the scenic attraction of the village. I understand better now why 15,000,000 Germans voted to take his wealth in Germany away from Wilhelm II.

I did not see the lord of the castle. The ex-kaiser does not like me. In 1919 and 1920 I tried to get him to do an historical service to the German people and to all who bear German names. I worked for months among his entourage to get Wilhelm II to demand a trial before an international tribunal in order to get the "sole war guilt" charge against Germany refuted for all time by pitiless publicity.

FACTS FROM DOCUMENTS.

The facts were from documents and living witnesses. Among the conditions he was to make was the calling of all principal actors in the world tragedy such as Delcasse, Bethmann-Hollweg and others who have since died, and the opening of the archives in Paris, Rome, London, Berlin and the capitals of other countries in the war.

Some of the ardent monarchist leaders in Germany including Ludendorff, at least two of the ex-kaiser's sons and some of his immediate entourage, were for the plan believing as they did, it would be a great sacrificial act of the exiled monarch for Germany and the German people and go far to wipe out his flight to Holland, and lend lustre again to the Hohenzollern name.

Samuel W. Untermyer, prominent New York lawyer, and others were associated in the movement. After months of work, General Von Dommes, formerly of the kaiser's suite, brought me back the answer: "His Majesty says he is not subject to any earthly tribunal."

I asked the general to take back to Amerongen, where the ex-kaiser was then living, my reply and that was: His Majesty professes to be a devout Christian. He believes in the Bible. The Bible tells that God sent his only Son on earth that He might submit to an earthly tribunal as a sacrifice for mankind. His Majesty will make no sacrifice for his country and his people.

Later George Sylvester Viereck, his New York friend, remarked to me, "The kaiser doesn't speak well of you."

MANILA EXPERIENCES SLIGHT EARTHQUAKE

Manila, P. I., Aug. 2 (I.N.S.)—An earthquake lasting for one minute shook Manila today. No damage was reported. Colonel Carmi Thompson, personal representative of President Coolidge, was eating luncheon in the Manila Hotel when the dishes on his table began to rattle and roll onto the floor.

ARMS AND EXPLOSIVES BANNED IN PORTUGAL

Lisbon, Portugal, Aug. 2 (A.P.)—An official decree just issued warns possessors of arms and explosives to deliver them up to the authorities within two days. After this time illicit manufacturers of explosives and bomb throwers will be liable to summary trial by the military authorities.

King Speeds to Work on Cycle, Cops Nab Him

Brussels, Aug. 2 (A.P.)—Two gendarmes spotted a lone motorcyclist racing toward Brussels from Laeken and halted him, demanding his papers. When they read the driver's permit, they nearly fainted, as it was made out to "Albert of Belgium."

The King shook hands with the gendarmes and reassured them by saying: "You did right; it is your duty—but I am a little late for work," and he sped away.

WALES, GAILY CLAD, IS CHEERED IN FRANCE

Paris, Aug. 2 (A.P.).—Exposed, possibly, by the new cut of his gray plus-fours and cap to match, the Prince of Wales was greeted with cheers by holiday seekers who crossed with him on a channel boat, despite his nome de travel of Earl of Chester. He was en route to Le Touquet for a week-end of golf and bathing.

5 Die in Plane Crash

Berlin, Aug. 2.—Five persons were killed and many injured when an airplane doing an exhibition flying stunt crashed into a crowd of spectators at Heydenheim.

NEW CLUE TO TRAIN ROBBERS

Rum Row and its parasites, the hi-jackers, were today the objectives of detectives in the search for the two men who staged the train robbery at Amesbury, escaping with $65,000.

After spending six hours at the State House with members of the train crew in a vain endeavor to associate pictures in the Rogues' Gallery with the holdup men, the State detectives suddenly switched to the rum runner or hi-jacker theory. Ships have been reported landing liquor in a creek off the Merrimac River at Salisbury about the time of the train robbery.

THUGS HOLD UP CHILDS, DROP SAFE IN FLIGHT

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 2 (A.P.)—Three thugs today held up Childs' Mohawk street restaurant and tried unsuccessfully to make away with a safe containing more than $2,000. They succeeded in cowing the manager and a number of employes and patrons by brandishing firearms and in carrying the safe to their automobile. Placing the safe on the running board, they fled, but in turning a corner the safe rolled off and the robbers did not stop.

LOCATED LONG AGO BY FAMILY

Urgent Appeal for Help Found in Bottle Believed to Be Hoax

New York, Aug. 2.—The family of Walter S. Ward, son of the millionaire bakery owner, who has been missing since May 6, know his whereabouts and have been in touch with him for a month and a half.

This announcement was made by Detective Thomas Williams to Sheriff Howe of Suffolk County, Long Island. It followed Sheriff Howe's report to the Missing Persons Bureau of the New York Police Department that a bottle had been washed ashore near Riverhead, bearing a note which read:

"Held on Robin's Island. For God's sake send held. Walter Ward."

The note in the bottle is believed to be a hoax.

Detective Williams told Sheriff Howe that the Ward family had requested that the long search for him be called off.

The bottle and the message were turned over to Sheriff Howe, of Riverhead, L. I., by G. F. Grofwohl.

Grofwohl told the police he found the bottle near a yacht club at Cutchogue, L. I. Finding of the message was reported to the police of the New York City who communicated with members of the Ward family.

The hunt for Ward was precipitated by the finding of his abandoned motor car in Trenton, N. J. A jagged hole had been torn in the windshield. On the driver's seat was a huge boulder. In the rear of the car was an empty traveling bag and a brief case. Papers had been scattered over the floor.

Ward achieved notoriety three years ago in connection with the killing of Clarence Peters. He was twice indicted and acquitted.

FIRE MARSHAL BANS GARAGE

State Fire Marshal George C. Neal today overruled the Boston street commissioners, who had granted a permit to the Opera Garage, Inc., for the erection of a garage and 2,000-gallon filling station at No. 127 St. Stephen street, Back Bay.

Isidore Gordon appealed to the fire marshal from the street commissioners' decision, and Marshal Neal made a personal investigation. He said the district was a student centre and purely residential and he was convinced a public garage would be detrimental to property and an annoyance to residents.

MAKES IT HARD FOR "TAKE THE RAP" BOYS

Judge William Sullivan in Municipal Court today delivered a body blow to the bootlegging industry and at the same time raised havoc with the "take the rap" system. He said: "Hereafter any defendant appearing before me charged with keeping liquor in a place that has already been convicted will be sent to jail."

The judicial dictum came when Fred Warnick of Porter street, South End, appeared on the charge of keeping and exposing intoxicating liquor for sale. Sergeant Montague said Warnick had not been convicted previously, but the place in which he was arrested had been the scene of several other arrests and convictions.

RUSSIAN REDS MENACING MEXICO, SAYS CARDINAL O'CONNELL

DECLARES FAITH WILL BE TRIUMPHANT IN END

A sinister shadow, rising in Red Russia, spreading over all the world, is now hanging heavily over Mexico, Cardinal O'Connell believes.

Without mincing words, the churchman pictured the Communist organization throttling the better element in Mexico and through bribery, corruption and tyranny furtherings its aim to crush the church.

Back of the Mexican troubles, the closing of churches, the persecution of clergy, Cardinal O'Connell showed the Moscow government, acting through secret emissaries, working against the church because it constituted the most powerful bulwark against robbery and anarchy.

SEES FAITH WINNING

Offering up prayers at the Holy Cross Cathedral, beseeching the Catholics in Mexico to have strength and fortitude to withstand their trials, the Cardinal said theirs was not a new experience. Similar persecution could be traced back to the time of Nero in Rome. As Christianity triumphant then he sees it rising triumphant over the Communists in Mexico. The Cardinal said:

"In Russia they scored success and we know the bitter consequences to the Russian people. From their seat of power in Moscow, they have sent their emissaries into every land.

"In Mexico, they have climbed to power by brute force and corruption, and, from their new citadel, the first in the new world, they have started their virulent campaign against the church. Her towers must be leveled in the dust before the principles which have hitherto been the basis of Christian civilization can be attacked and overwhelmed.

"All the world knows that today a most deplorable and sad condition exists in Mexico. For months the American public has learned from the columns of the press the series of despotic acts on the part of the Mexican government against religion and those that profess the Christian faith. It is clear that those exercising civil power at present in Mexico have boldly thrown off the mask of hypocrisy which served their purpose in obtaining foreign recognition and are now openly defying the very first principles upon which government must rest and are deliberately working to deprive Mexican citizens of their fundamental rights.

"Were it not that we have the statement of facts under our very eyes we should find it difficult to believe that any clique in power pretending to civil jurisdiction could be so utterly guilty of such criminal deeds inflicted upon a helpless population in the name of national welfare.

"Nevertheless, it is the fact that today, in a country bordering upon our own, a band of unprincipled men, who have climbed to power by corruption, bribery and force, are holding the great majority of the people of Mexico under the heel of the most brutal tyranny, a tyranny which not only deprives them of their inalienable civic rights, but which seeks to strangle the very soul of the nation by crushing out its religion.

"Under pretext of an excessive and ridiculous nationalism they expel the citizens of other countries whose only offence has been that they have assisted in spreading the gospel of Christ among the people. Under the pretext that the Church was too political, because, forsooth, she could not approve their crimes against God's law, this clique of atheists has attempted to crush the spirit of honor and the love of right in the hearts of the church's pastors.

HATRED OF RELIGION

"Finding that these men of God feared God more than them and, conscious of their sacred duty, refused to submit to decrees as unjust as they were cruel and inhuman, they were exiled and imprisoned. Because the Catholic people of Mexico, constituting the overwhelming majority of that country refused to be bound in body, mind and soul by a constitution imposed upon them by brute force, they were published to the world as rebels to progress and liberty.

"The details of these crazy and unprincipled attempts on the part of an unprincipled band of conspirators, still holding office by corruption and force, are so revolting and shocking to all human and just sentiment as to make it evident that not the pretended reaction of honest and upright citizens against despotism but a haterd of all religion, so violent as to seem diabolical, is the chief and guiding motive of this body of men, now calling themselves the Government of Mexico.

"Their action after all is logical enough. They know very well that the Catholic Church, her bishops, priests and people, have been and still are the most powerful bulwark against rapine, robbery and anarchy, which, say what they will, is the real spirit animating those now in possession of governmental offices in Mexico.

ATTACKS REPELLED

"After all, to those of us who have lived over half a century this is no new phenomenon. We have seen it at work in nearly every country of Europe. In Italy, today, in France tomorrow, in Spain one day, in England the next; but there they found the conditions were not entirely ripe and their attacks were repelled with at least partial success, chiefly because again in all these nations, the warnings of the church were at last heard, arousing the citizens to the dangers facing them and by moral strength to defeat the menace which threatened them.

"But at last in Russia they scored success and we know the bitter consequences to the Russian people. From their seat of power in Moscow they have sent their emissary into every land. Thus far, there have been only swirmishes, again defeated by moral vigilance, but in Mexico they have climbed to power by brute force and corruption and from their new citadel, the first in the New World, they have started their virulent campaign, first as usual, against the church, the church which stands for eternal principles of justice, for the right to worship God, for the right of private ownership against robbery, brigandage and every flagrant injustice. Her tower must first be levelled in the dust before the principles which have hitherto been the basis of Christian civilization can be attacked and overwhelmed.

AGE-OLD STORY

"Oh, no, it is no new phenomenon. It is the same old story through the centuries. It began with Nero. It revealed itself again and again in all its horrible, brutality, always flanked by calumny and robbery, until in Russia and now again in Mexico they stand revealed in the crude nakedness of their hellish purpose. First, demolish the altar, the foundation of justice, and then, by mob violence, they work their will upon the defenceless people.

"That is the whole story of the Mexican situation in a nutshell. Its principles and its methods are as ancient as they are false. It is nothing short of the battle of the powers of darkness against the powers of light, the battle that has gone on through all the ages, in which for a moment injustice may seem to triumph but which is defeated by its very methods.

"For the dormant faith of the Christian people sometimes, alas, lulled into too great a sense of security is always finally aroused and, by God's grace and help, faces courageously all trials and persecution and rises once more to its rightful place in the life of the people, sanctifying, blessing and guiding their homes and their human rights.

"That expresses in a word the crisis which exists in Mexico today. On the one hand are corruption, calumny, robbery and the hypocrisy which by external propaganda seeks to mask its villainous purpose. On the other is the consciousness of eternal right and the determination to suffer death rather than yield that which no man has the power to command, but is God's alone.

WHOLE WORLD PRAYS

"These are the forces in battle array. Can any Christian, nay, can any honest human being witness that battle with indifference? Is there anyone with a spark of honor in his soul who does not feel a sense of pride in the courage which stands up fearlessly against misrepresentation, lies, robbery and even the bayonet, and, with the spirit of the early martyrs, faces unshrinkingly those lawless miscreants who for the moment are in power, and calmly bids them do their worst with their bodies and their possessions, but their souls they will never conquer.

"Throughout the whole world today arises the incense of prayer to the throne of God, appealing to His judgment in His own cause and imploring for His church, his ministers and His people the Divine Grace of fortitude in the face of outrageous injustice and unspeakable cruelty.

"Again and again we know by history that these trials come to individuals and nations, only to test their real strength and their real confidence in God. We know that individuals and nations suffer for a while but their very suffering brings a revelation of their own weakness, a sense of their own unfaithfulness and with the realization, comes a new strength, and out of the tomb, where they were threatened with the sleep of almost death, glows the light of a great resurrection and a new spring dawns after a bitter Winter has passed.

"So shall it be with Mexico. All those trials will never have been in vain. After a brief period of sadness and sorrow the faith of the Mexican people will take on a new lease of life. These very trials will make Mexico see her own weaknesses and will point the way to a vigorous and loyal spirit. These days now so dark will soon pass and with them the very names of those inhuman beings, who, misled and misguided by the vanity of a fleeting triumph will find how fickle is the lure of a false sense of power when used not for the and honorable laws, but merely to vent their spite and their hate against that which is eternal and immovable, the Christian faith of a Christian people.

"Yes, they and their very names will pass and the record and the names of those who today are bent down in grief and sorrow and trial, rather than yield to injustice on the seats of the mighty—their record and their names will live forever.

"Let us join our prayers with the prayers of the faithful all over the world begging God to defend His people. May Our Blessed Lord guard them against their enemies who are also His. May these misguided men who are vainly attempting to stifle God's own voice hear at last the warning which the whole Christian world is today raising as a protest against their infamous and inhuman actions."

Age Old Story in Mexico, Says Prelate

It is the same old story through the centuries. It began with Nero. It revealed itself again and again in all its horrible, brutality, always flanked by calumny and robbery, until in Russia and now again in Mexico they stand revealed in the crude nakedness of their hellish purpose.

FINAL TRIBUTES TO CUMMINS

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 2 (A.P.).—Representatives of the nation joined Iowans today in final tribute to Senator Albert B. Cummins, whose death Friday ended thirty-nine years of service to the Commonwealth.

Twelve members of the Senate were honorary pallbearers.

Final public tribute to Senator Cummins was rendered in the Capitol, where thousands of citizens from every walk of life filed past the casket from early morning until dusk.

Republican Senators here for the funeral are expected to have an important part in conferences later in the week which party leaders hope will unite Iowa Republicans on a candidate for Senator Cummins' unexpired term. Some of the Senators are known to favor the selection of Smith W. Brookhart.

28 POISONED BY BAD FOOD

Chicago, Aug. 2 (I.N.S.)—A total of twenty-eight patients are in Chicago hospitals this morning as the result of eating poisoned food. Five are in a serious condition.

At a wedding celebration at the home of Tony Manrillo, No. 829 So. Wood street, twenty persons were stricken after partaking of a wedding cake. Their plight was discovered by Mrs. Mary Dailey, who lives upstairs over the Manrillos.

Hearing groans coming from the apartment below she investigated and found virtually all the guests writhing on the floor. Several had become unconscious. Hurriedly calling help, Mrs. Daily attempted to revive some of them.

Ambulances summoned by an emergency call removed the victims to the Ashland Boulevard Hospital. First aid treatment was hurriedly given and physicians said that the prompt discovery of the poisoning had undoubtedly averted a serious tragedy. Four of those poisoned are in a serious condition.

Last night, eight more persons, two women and six children were poisoned as the result of their curiosity. One of the children had discovered some strange seeds in the basement of the home of Mrs. Lottie Walske. The child brought them to his mother and she tasted them as did the rest of the children. A neighbor who was visiting at the home also sampled the strange seeds.

Within an hour all were unconscious. Prompt medical treatment saved the children but Mrs. Walke failing to respond to antidoes is in a serious condition.

ALL CATHOLICS IN PRAYER

New York, Aug. 2 (A.P.).—Roman Catholics throughout the world have thrown their moral support to their church in its conflict with the Mexican government.

Special services and prayers for a favorable solution were offered yesterday in Catholic churches all over the world in compliance with the wishes of the Pope.

Several hundred Catholic churches in New York were crowded to the doors with worshippers, and prayers were offered in some Protestant churches for a peaceful solution of the problem. Special services were held at St. Patrick's Cathedral, and it was announced that pamphlets explaining the church point of view would be circulated later in the week.

The government's attitude was published yesterday, including charges by President Calles that the Catholics had been oppressive to Protestants in Mexico.

Dispatches from Cuba and elsewhere told of special services and extra large church attendance.

Several thousand Mexican Catholics flocked across the international boundary into American cities to attend services yesterday.

Twenty-one nuns, priests and students arrived in New York from Mexico on the steamer Regina Maria Christiana, most of them bound for Spain. Some of the priests said they expected some bloodshed in Mexico before settlement of the trouble.

San Francisco, Aug. 2 (I.N.S.).—"Remain ever loyal and ever true to the land of your adoption. Do all that is right and good. Do nothing that is wrong. Be good American citizens and uphold, thereby, Sweden's fair name."

Thus spoke His Royal Highness, Crown Prince Gustaf Adolf of Sweden, in addressing several thousand of his former countrymen who gathered at the Civic Auditorium here.

The Crown Prince's message was broadcast by radio station WGO, under the auspices of the San Francisco Examiner.

A tremendous demonstration greeted the future King and Queen of Sweden as they entered the auditorium, which was packed to overflowing.

'Auto Eye' Latest Affliction of Pet Dogs

Dogs as well as their human masters are sufferers from ills brought on by auto riding. While the human ailment may be diagnosed as "chauffeurs feet" caused by much riding and little walking, the canine pet is afflicted more seriously.

"Auto eye" the doctors call it in lieu of a better name. Because dogs insist on riding with their heads in the wind, the rush of air carrying fine particles of dust, cause an inflamed condition of the lids. Veterinarians are kept treating aggravat ed cases.

FATIMA

DROPS WOMAN PASTOR PROBE

Los Angeles, Aug. 2.—(A.P.).—The Aimee Semple McPherson disappearance case investigation has been discontinued again by District Attorney Asa Keyes, because he declared "it would cost the county thousonads of dollars to convict anyone of perjury."

He also said he considers new evidence at Carmel as too vague to be of value.

Abandoning the inquiry brought expressions of joy from the Angelus Temple evangelist and her followers. Mrs. McPherson declared she hoped soon to be able to produce conclusive evidence to substantiate her kidnaping story.

The case has been opened and closed a half dozen times since her disappearance.

"Rescue" 4 Women Carried Off on Priscilla

GIRL TELLS OF SHRINE CURE

Nothing in the line of gymnastics is too strenuous now for sixteen-year-old Mary Mullen of Allston, following her cure of paralysis at the Shrine of St. Anne de Beaupre, Quebec.

"Since I walked away from the shrine, after the miracle that gave me back the power of my limbs, I have been able to do just what I want, and it is too wonderful for words," she said.

"For my own recovery and for the cures of others who were made well by miracles at the shrine while I was there, I will always pray daily because I can imagine nothing so inspiring as to regain the use of limbs, eyes or ears after having lost it.

"I believe my faith was so strong and vigorous that the cure just had to come. Twice on the way to St. Anne's I was in automobile accidents, and my family urged me to give up the journey and return home, but I was sure I would be cured if I could only reach the shrine.

"As I kissed the St. Anne relic, I experienced a strange pain in my head and feet, the power suddenly returned to my legs and I walked out, completely well. Since then I have had no trouble at all doing what I want in the way of exercising, walking and thoroughly enjoying my regained power."

After a two hours' ride the party arrived at the picnic grove. Bathing suits were promptly donned and every one made for the water. After enjoying themselves in the lake for an hour, the word was passed along to line up for "eats."

Following the luncheon there was a race for the little tots, a 50-yard dash and a 100-yard dash for the older boys, a three-legged race, an obstacle race, wheelbarrow race and various others. Suitable prizes were presented the winners in each event. John T. Curry, publicity director of Morgan's, was in charge of the day's activities and he was ably assisted by Charles A. Grinnell also of Morgan's.

DRY CZAR PAYS VISIT TO PARIS

Paris, Aug. 2 (A.P.).—Brigadier-General Lincoln C. Andrews, prohibition enforcement chief, said today his visit to Paris was unofficial, but he might take up a "minor question" with officials of the French line.

This has to do with the allegation that crews of liners have liquor on vessels and sold it over the side in New York.

General Andrews said he had no idea of approaching French officials regarding smuggling through St. Pierre and Miquelon or other French ports, pointing out that his recent conference in London was held at the invitation of the British, while no invitation had come from the French.

British Pastor Flays Andrews in Poison Rum Deaths

London, Aug. 2 (I.N.S.).—Alcoholic poisonings in Buffalo and other points along the Canadian border were the subject of bitter debate in the House of Common today.

Rev. Frederick MacQuiston, M. P., of Glasgow, attacked the recent Anglo-American agreement for the suppression of rum-running and declared General Andrews might better have spent his time in keeping American poison alcohol out of Canada.

"Has your attention been called to the poisoning of more than a score of British Nationals in British territory by drink smuggled by Americans into British territory?" he cried to Sir Austen Chamberlain, Foreign Minister.

Father Joaquin Arrigo, spokesman for the party, said:

"I am afraid, and so are my friends, that if some peaceful settlement is not reached soon there will be fatal consequences."

CONFESSES TO SLAYING 14

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 2 (I.N.S.).—"I intended to hang mysen, but I got to thinking that maybe some poor innocent beggar is serving time for one of my crimes, so I decided to surrender and confess."

This was the explanation of Thomas Johnson, who surrendered to the police here. Johnson told an amazed desk sergeant that he had "murdered fourteen men and committed hundreds of daring robberies during the past twenty years."

"I am insane," Johnson cheerfully admits.

As a result of Johnson's confession that he killed Leonard Erndale, attorney for the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad during a holdup in Minneapolis, last December 19, two detetcives were en route to Seattle to question him.

Johnson said that he committed his first murder in San Francisco during the fire of 1906. He also said that he escaped several years ago from an insane asylum in Jefferson City, Mo.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY

J. Pierpont Morgan's Yacht Corsair Is Anchored in Gloucester Harbor

NATURAL ARRIVALS OF much moment on the North Shore include the palatial Corsair, known on the seven seas as the sea going home of Americas famous financier, J. Pierpont Morgan. The enormous black yacht dropped anchor off Eastern Point light, just within the shelter of Gloucester's haven.

ANOTHER HANDSOME sea-going visitor seeking week-end harbor in Gloucester was the Mahapa II, a graceful steam yacht formerly flying the private flag of Boston and Marblehead's active sailor, Henry A. Morse, the Eastern's rear commodore.

THE MAHAPA now sails under the Robert Wood colors, Mr. Wood having acquired the yacht a day or so ago from its former owner. Portsmouth for the Summer will be home waters for the Mahapa, nearby the Wood seashore establishment.

THE CORSAIR and Mr. Morgan are fairly frequent North Shore visitors, Boston's world of fashion having several connections by marriage with the Morgan family. Mrs. Stephen V. R. Crosby and Mrs. Boylston Adams Beal, Charles Francis Adams and the Converses are in this category and Mr. Morgan comes hither to visit them.

MISS GRETCHEN BROWN, pretty blonde daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Brown, Jr., of Bay State road and "Redtop" farm, Hamilton, is a visitor in Sewickley, Pennsylvania, in the home of her fiance, James Crosan Chaplin, 3d.

A LARGE AND IMPORTANT wedding, October 16, will have Miss Brown as its central figure, and a lovely bride she's sure to be. St. Paul's is the setting, and there will be a large and imposing entourage.

FRANKLIN H. BEEBE, now abroad, as is his every Summer custom, is expected home shortly, and goes at once to his large estate at Falmouth called "Highfield Hall." It's a wide domain of many acres, one of the South Shore's largest, with a hunting park, beach, and comfortable manor house.

THE BEACON STREET residence of Mr. Beebe contains, as is fitting for this consistent patron of the Arts, a splendidly proportioned and artistically decorated music room, whose accoustic properties are not excelled in the whole town.

NEWPORT'S LIVELY YOUNG feminine set for this Summer boasts several Boston, acquisitions including Mrs. Bayard Thayer's daughters, Miss Ruth Thayer and Miss Mabel Bayard, Miss Mary Ames daughter of Mrs. F. Lothrop Ames, and the two Harry Hill Thorndike daughters, Miss Isabel and Miss Helen Thorndike.

WHICH ALL INDICATES a Boston representation on the famous "avenue" of smartest sartorial effect, as each young woman is specially good to look upon and each dresses her type with perfect perception of chic.

MISS AMES, dipping into Summer gaities at America's foremost Spa, before the official debut of next Winter, is one of the Avenue's prettiest figures. In all white, or one of the brilliant colors she wears so easily, Miss Ames delights the eye.

THE GLORIFIED SPORTS frock and hat, done in flat crepe or gay silk, is Miss Newport's morning selection, and is smartly exemplified by Miss Helen and Miss Isabel Thorndike. With their brune coloring, fashion's decree for the high, gorgeous color is specially a happy one.

STORK WINS IN RACE WITH SHIP

New York, Aug. 2.—A fond mother's wish to have her baby born in the United States, her native country, was thwarted when the stork won a race with the steamship Carmania, leaving a son to the Prince and Princess Guido Pignatelli de Montecalvo. The baby lived only two days and was buried at sea.

Princess Montevalco was Miss Constance Grenelle Wilcox of New York and Madison, Conn. She married the prince last August immediately leaving for Italy. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Wilcox, were at the dock and had her transferred to their home in a private ambulance.

INDIANS ASK BILLION OF U.S.

Washington, Aug. 2. — Indians from thirty-five tribes have filed claims totaling $1,293,890 against the United States. Of these claims the greatest is that of the Sioux for $800,000,000.

The territories of these tribes range from Oklahoma to North Dakota, Montana, Idaho and Washington, and the basis for many of the claims is found in the very beginnings of the United States government.

The Department of Justice is representing the government in these suits. One dates to a controversy which arose when Andrew Jackson defeated the Creek Indians in 1813.

NORRIS' FLOCK GIVES $25,000 FOR DEFENSE

Pastor, Facing Death Charge, Makes Stirring Appeal for Contributions

Fort Worth, Tex., Aug. 2 (Universal).—With a stirring appeal ringing in their ears to stand solidly behind old fashioned Baptist religion and their pastor during his forthcoming trial on a murder charge, members of the First Baptist Church contributed more than $25,000 at the close of the service to the Rev. J. Frank Norris' defense fund.

Norris prefaced his appeal for contributions to his defense fund by reading several telegrams which he said he had received during the week authorizing him to draw upon the sender for any amount up to $500.

"These telegrams," Dr. Norris said as he waved a sheaf of wires, "represent only a few of the hundreds I have received and I would rather have my own true flock come to my aid and to the aid of their church than strangers, although they are true disciples of Christ and worthy of the name, 'Christians.'"

The contributions were made on cheques and in envelopes bearing these words, "Herewith is my free will contributions toward the expense of answering the diabolical conspiracy against our cause."

SAYS HER CAR IS NO AUTO

Miss Katherine M. MacNeil has what she calls a plaything, and what some rude cop insists is an automobile, to prove her contention she is going to drive her plaything right into the office of Registrar Goodwin Friday and get an official ruling.

Miss MacNeil, one of the hostesses at the Palm Garden, Nantasket, has been going from the Gardens to her hotel in what is probably the smallest automobile in Massachusetts, and attracting much attention thereby.

The auto is just five feet long, just large enough for Miss MacNeil to sit in, and is operated by electricity. Everything went fine as she drove to her hotel, until one day a big machine hit Miss MacNeil's road insect.

"Where's your license?" demanded the cop. Miss MacNeil didn't have any. She insisted it was not an automobile. It was a plaything. And so she's going to drive it right into Mr. Goodwin's office. If he decides it's an automobile she will be prepared to register it.

Miss MacNeil lives at No. 12 Beach street, Newtonville, and attends Newton high school. She is 18.

ZANGWILL DIES IN ENGLAND

London, Aug. 2 (Universal.)—Israel Zangwill, Jewish author and dramatist, died suddenly at a nursing home at Midhurst, Sussex, near his home in Eastern Preston, where he has been for two months suffering from a nervous breakdown. The immediate cause of his death was an attack of pneumonia.

Zangwill's breakdown was brought on by the strain of producing a revival of his plays at the Fortune Theatre. He had a relapse a week ago, but his physicians stated that his chances of recovery were good.

Three days ago his wife came into London to gather some manuscripts on which the dramatist was working. According to friends she was then evidently reassured that her husband would soon return to health.

Shirts for August Days

During August there are many "dog days," when a man's shirt and collar seem to literally wilt. It is then that he needs to have a good supply on hand. Talbot's, 395 Washington St., this week are having a wonderful sale of genuine broadcloth shirts at $1.55 each. They have the lustrous sheen and fine finish for which Talbot's shirts are famous. Both collar attached and neckband styles, splendid for sports as well as business. The man who takes a vacation in August should go into Talbot's before he leaves and see these broadcloth ones at $1.55. Excellent value. Cool, comfortable, fine, excellently tailored, finished as the more expensive silk, and wear most beautifully. Truly remarkable at the price.

Talbot always at this season puts on a special like this. Everyone knows that genuine broadcloth is the shirt material that every well-dressed man wants to wear. At $1.55 he can afford a supply that will enable him to be clean, fresh and immaculate from morn till night.

I have looked around in my shopping tours and nowhere else have I seen genuine broadcloth shirts like these at this price. They are full and perfectly cut and of superior quality, and Talbot is able to sell them for so little on account of their tremendous output. This sale every year proves a genuine success. It is time for the thrifty wife and mother of boys to get them outfitted with beautiful shirts at a fraction of what they would generally cost.

Do go into Talbot's and see these exceptionally fine broadcloth shirts at the extremely low price of $1.55 each or 3 for $4.50!

In the Right Light

You will always be seen, if you go right away to Spalding-Moss Co., 42 Franklin St., and get some of their lamps and shades for your house. They are now having a most remarkable mid-Summer sale. All lamps and shades are reduced 25% and many 50%.

Just think of these values! For $1.98 are lovely 12-inch bridge lamp shades of parchment, hand decorated crystalline or painted. You couldn't get the parchment shade undecorated even for so little elsewhere.

At $2.49 are 16-inch oval and empire shades, hand decorated with lovely soft artistic nasturtiums or roses on delicate backgrounds. They are finished at the top and bottom with black velvet or gilt. And really a most remarkable value. An 18-inch empire shade of genuine parchment, painted by hand, is only $3.49. It is well worth $7 or $8, and would look stunning on a junior floor lamp or large table lamp. In the evening, when you seek a chair where cool breezes blow you need a lamp to shed a soft restful light upon you, and one of these from Spaulding-Moss would be just the thing.

Almost their entire stock of beautiful bridge, table and floor lamps, and hundreds of exquisite parchment shades, hand decorated or plain, are in this sale. As they sell so many, they are able to offer them at these astoundingly low figures. Every housewife should take advantage of this worth-while sale. Dainty boudoir lamps in lovely rose, green, orange and blue stand on a firm metal base, about 16 inches high, and come complete with hand-decorated crystalline parchment shade for only $3.89. Remarkable. I am going in tomorrow to get one. You should, too. One would make a lovely gift. Do go into Spaulding-Moss and pick up some wonderful values in shades for your house. Nowhere will you find them for so little.

The Gorgeous Colors of Italy

are reflected in the beautiful handmade woven Italian baskets that are now on sale at Hovey's on their second floor. They are only $1.00 each. Beautiful shapes; large ones like beanpots or tea kettles have separate cover and long handle. Very finely braided in combinations of fascinating tones that rival a "Turner" sunset. The value is simply extraordinary, never before have I seen such baskets for $1.00! Red, orange, blue, green, tan, rose, majenta and purple. Many one-tone baskets, too.

I have always loved these imported baskets, they have a myriad of uses. There are square and round waste baskets, good and deep with little handles at the top. Most attractive on the verandah or in the sun-parlor. Always seem to bring a ray of sunshine into a room, as well as an air of refinement and good taste.

Many are shaped like market baskets to carry on one's arm. So pretty with cool Summer costumes and awfully light in weight. Long barrel shaped baskets have a top too, and I generally take one with me to hold my knitting or sewing. They are good and roomy, and could even be used to carry one's bathing suit to the beach, or as an overnight bag.

Baskets like these at Hovey's make most welcome gifts and colorful bridge prizes. The price does not tell their value, they are worth a great deal more, but Hovey is able to sell them for so little on account of the extraordinary number they sell. Go in right away while the variety lasts and get first choice. They are the fashionable thing to carry at Summer seashore and mountain resorts. Quite the vogue at Southampton, Newport and Bar Harbor. And remember, they are only $1.00 at Hovey's on the second floor.

Beaded Bags for Boston Belles

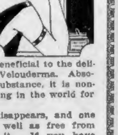
A limited quantity of the most exquisite French beaded bags have just arrived from Europe and are being put on sale at Filene's just for two days, Monday and Tuesday. I hunted Paris for just such bags as these last Summer and the prices were way beyond my modest reach. Here is a chance to get one of fashion's latest accessories at extremely low prices. For $3.65 are envelope shaped beaded purses, size 4 x 3 inches, in gorgeous colorings. Absolutely the finest bead work France produces. Dainty to a degree. Lovely gold, silver, steel and black combined in intricate design with brilliant as well as delicate colors.

At $5.95 are large size envelopes in a combination of gold and silver beads, or steel and black, symmetrical as well as floral patterns; also lovely Chanel red and jade green, and all beautiful colors combined with steel, silver and gold. Size 6 x 3¼. These are truly wonderful. For very dressy evening wear are others beautifully fine and studded with rhinestones or green or blue jewels, and they are only $5.95, too! You really should see them. All have beaded fringe and strap handle. At the same price are bags on carved gilt frames with scalloped bottom and fringe, beautifully lined with silk, and hanging from a double gilt link chain.

Very large elaborated beaded bags on heavy gilt frames are simply marvelous works of art. I should think it would have taken ages to make one of them and I was more than amazed to find they were only $9.65 at Filene's. Large, deep and very rich looking. Most unusual value. This is the time to pick up such articles for Xmas, engagement or birthday presents. All the designs are unique and they show the finest of workmanship and most fascinating colors. Such values are possible now only on account of the rapid decline of the French franc combined with expert buying, for which Filene is famous. After they are sold there will be no more to be had at this price. See them Monday or Tuesday, as such a shipment as this will quickly go.

And Do You Know?

Timothy Smith & Co., at their Roxbury store, are selling Velouderma, that marvelous Russian preparation for the complexion and hands. It is only 25 cents a tube, and there is nothing better. It has been used extensively in Europe by ladies who value a clear, velvety skin. It allays all irritations, leaving one's face refreshed and soft as the dew on a rose petal.



Many men use it every day before shaving, as it is healing, soothing and softening. I know John won't be without his tube.

There is nothing more beneficial to the delicate skin of a baby than Velouderma. Absolutely pure, jelly-like in substance, it is non-greasy, and is the best thing in the world for chapping and chafing.

The fire of sunburn disappears, and one feels cool and lovely as well as free from freckles when she uses it. If you have never had a tube, do go to Timothy Smith's and get one at 25 cents. It comes in two most deliciously fragrant odors, rose and violet, and is really a necessary adjunct to the girl who cares for her skin, to say nothing of the baby and man of the house.

Affectionately,

Priscilla

3 BOYS HELD IN GEM THEFTS

Three youths, one 17, and the other two, each 16, were held today on larceny charges in Newton District Court following the recovery of $2,500 in jewelry and other personal property, stolen in four recent breaks in Newton.

An attempt to sell one of the stolen rings, in a Boston jewelry sop in Hanover street, caused the arrest of the boys, according to police. The youths are booked as Harold Valentine, 16, of Greenwood avenue; Alphonsus J. Chesley, 16, of Gerard court, and Lanier J. Quinn, Washington street, all of Newton.

The trio was held in $500 bail each until Friday. Quinn pleaded not guilty. The other two youths will appear in Juvenile Court.

Nearly $2,000 of the recovered loot was taken from the home of Arthur D. Cook, a jeweler, of No. 22 Barstable road, West Newton, consisting of diamond rings and gold watches. Two radio sets, valued at $400, were taken from the home of Charles A. Breed of No. 245 Bowers street, Newton. All three are charged with these breaks. Valentine is also charged with two church breaks. A police inspector spotted the boys while they were in the Boston jewelry shop. The loot was found in a shed in the rear of the home of one of the boys, police say.

Bold Quincy Cops on Nocturnal Rooster Hunt

There is a rooster somewhere near Center road, Houghs Neck, Quincy, which has been crowing all night long. If he does it much more he won't have any head to crow with, for the cops are after him. According to people who live on the street he has kept everybody awake for several nights.

The Board of Health was appealed to and the board asked the cooperation of the police. Police are going to listen as well as watch on Center road in the future, and if the disturber is identified it will be dealt with severely they say.

SIX ROBED MEN KIDNAP TEXAN

Fort Worth, Tex., Aug. 2 (A.P.).—The kidnaping of a man from one of Fort Worth's busiest corners Saturday night by six robed but unmasked men continues to baffle police.

A policeman and a newsboy, witnesses to the kidnaping, said the man was standing near the curb when an automobile stopped in front of him and the robed men seized him, threw him into the motor car and sped away before anyone could interfere. The officer was twenty feet away.

No clews have been developed as to the identity of the man or his kidnapers.

Lanier Webb, the newsboy, said a large man in a white robe grabbed the victim and carried him to the automobile. The robes all bore crimson crosses, Lanier declared.

Woman Editor Weds

San Francisco, Aug. 2.—Mrs. Anne Reed Brenner, associate editor of the Survey, widely-known in New York social and literary circles, and Dr. Lovell Langstroth, prominent physician, were married here.

LEAGUE HOPES TO GET U. S. IN

Williamstown, Aug. 2 (A.P.).—The American reservation to joining the World Court providing that no case involving the United States shall be submitted to the court without the consent of the Senate, is impossible of acceptance to the League of Nations, M. Nicholas Politis, Greek minister to France, said today.

"There is no lessening of the desire of Europeans to have the United States in the court," said M. Politis. "The only question is how America will co-operate in the election of judges and sharing expenses of the court."

So far as American entrance into the league itself is concerned, M. Politis believes that Europe continues to hope for that, but thinks that public opinion in this country is not yet ready for political cooperation with Europe.

"It is a matter of evolution of that opinion," he said.

M. Politis expressed the opinion that the dictatorships now in force are the result of the economic upheaval and that when this has been adjusted the trend will be toward democracy.

The Greek diplomat, who has taken an important part in League of Nations affairs, is one of the lecturers of the Institute of Politics here.

An ardent plea for Philippine independence was laid before the institute today by Pedro Guevara, resident commissioner from the islands, who "confidently affirmed that in view of the solemn pledge of the United States, the Philippine Islands are entitled to their independence."

In default of this he suggested the privilege of formulating their own constitution and conducting their own domestic affairs.

SMALL WHALE REPORTED MILE OFF SWAMPSCOTT

A small whale has been sighted several times in the last few days by fishermen and Summer residents about a mile off the Swampscott beach, in the vicinity of Egg Rock and off Eastern Point, Nahant. It is about 20 feet long.

Raymond Hitchcock Will Enter Movies

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS,
Motion Picture Editor of Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 2.—Raymond Hitchcock is going into the movies. I know because he told me, also his plans which are interesting not only because of his fame as a comedian, but because he will be associated with Marshal Neilan. Ever since "Hitchy" came two months ago to the land of movies he has been beseiged with offers, but it was not until "Micky" outlined an idea for a comedy that he consented to put his name on the dotted line.

Raymond Hitchcock

"What" is the name of his first picture. Not a joke you understand but a real story that concerns stage folk. It was written by "Micky" in collaboration with Benjamin Glaser. Of course, "Micky" will direct "Hitchy," and together they ought to turn out one of the best comedies seen in these parts in many a day.

Of course it won't even be started until "Everyone is Acting" is finished—about six or seven weeks hence. "Micky" and his company, including Betty Bronson and Lawrence Gray, are now in San Francisco on the first lap of the pictures—or should I say first stretch of exteriors.

"TOPSY AND EVA," the play made famous by the Duncan sisters, has been purchased by Associated-First National. This announcement in itself, is interesting but more so when we consider there is a likelihood that the Duncans may not make it.

This is the situation in a nutshell and an angle of the Duncan Sisters' much discussed movie contract that has not yet been made public.

It seems that Rosetta and Vivian in their enthusiasm over joining the film players in Hollywood sold the screen rights to "Topsy and Eva" before they negotiated their own contracts. When some difficulty arose over their First National contracts they started talking business to United Artists.

Joseph Schneck, being a wise business man, was not only willing but enthusiastic about having the famous Duncans in his company. Then he learned that First National owned the film rights to "Topsy and Eva" and he decided not to sign them unless they could buy back the rights to "Topsy and Eva."

There is still talk that they may sign with First National today in fact, I understand negotiations have not been dropped. If they do not sign First National will make the picture anyway. And, just a minute, please.

How about Colleen Moore as Topsy. She is the logical actress at First National and a little bird tells me if she is interested it may be arranged.

ANYTIME A FILM COMPANY STARTS negotiating for a scenario writer or a director under contract to another film concern you can wager your last dollar he, or she, is somebody worth borrowing. I might in this connection, mention Bess Meredyth, author of all of Jack Barrymore's screen plays.

Bess is an expert on historical and period plays and to my knowledge, no less than three companies have been trying to persuade Warners to loan her to them.

Dorothy Gish

Up to Saturday Jack Warner would listen and then politely decline. But on Saturday, Bess finished "The Third Degree," Dolores Costello's first starring vehicle for them, and, so, when Samuel Goldwyn asked permission to borrow her to write the scenario for "King Harlequin" he consented.

"King Harlequin" will make its appearance on the screen as "The Vagabond Prince," a Henry King production. Vilma Banky and Ronald Colman are the featured players. Frances Marion, who is still under contract to the Goldwyn company, is now writing the scenario for "Madame Pompadour," Dorothy Gish's next English picture so the borrowing of Miss Meredyth is a happy arrangement all around.

IT IS REALLY NO BIG NEWS when I say that H. B. Warner has been chosen to play Christ in "The King of Kings." I say, no big news, because the story leaked out some weeks ago in New York and was printed in this column and elsewhere as a rumor.

However, the confirmation is interesting and that was made by Cecil B. DeMille.

He gives as his reason for choosing Warner that he is one of the best dramatic actors on the stage and therefore well qualified to play this important role.

Quick Quizzes on the Movies

By BARBARA BENTON

ESTELLE'S ADMIRER. — Better not wait with anything like "bated breath" for "Don Juan" to show in Boston; it wouldn't be safe, because it is possible that the Warners will want to play it here as a "road-show" and, in that case, might wait for the pretty little snowflakes to cheer things up at the box-office. Since finishing her work in "Don Juan," Estelle Taylor has done little else than sign a nice long-term contract with Feature Productions, Inc., releasing through United Artists. Her next picture is now unknown, but she has been mentioned as leading lady for the next Valentino number, and also for a "loan" to Cecil B. De Mille for the role of Mary Magdelene in "The King of Kings." Anything else?

M. E. D., SOMERVILLE.—What is D. W. Griffith up to? He has been playing the very deuce, lately. Honest! His new production is "The Sorrows of Satan," which he has adapted from Marie Corelli's novel. And they do say that he's "coming back" strong with it. Here's hoping!

L. F. D., NEWTON—Now that's a good one. "Is Chester Conklin's mustache real?" Nevertheless it is a good, fair question, and here I am right back at you. No. Chester rolls his own from camel's hair grown especially for him by some distinguished dromedary.

D. F. O., JAMAICA PLAIN.—What's all the shootin' for on this here Greater Movie Season? Just watch the Boston Evening American during the next few weeks. Something very big is about to happen and, perhaps, you will be in on it. Patience! It's worth waiting for.

MR. AND MRS. EVERYBODY: What do YOU want to know about the movies? Write me please. Barbara.

Starvation Suicide Is Planned by Baron in Miami

A Thrilling Story of Night Life and Night Clubs; A Mad Whirl of Adventure

"I'm fired," said Joslyn blankly. "They don't want me on account of the notoriety."

Joslyn Poe, daughter of a proud, but impoverished Virginia family, wants a career, not marriage. Her mother wants her to wed. The wild blood of a line of daring women runs in her veins. She wants adventure. A seeress tells her of the "wildness" in her blood. She goes to a dance. She determines she will settle her problem that night—to marry George Ransom, well-to-do, but no dandy, or—go to New York in seek of adventure. She meets a stranger at the dance.

Milton Stein, the stranger, advises Joslyn to go to the city and to dance. Joslyn, hungry and discouraged, is heard weeping by Kittie Lane, a manicurist. Kittie gets Lee Rogers, a friend, to invite them to dinner.

While the girls are at the table with Rogers, James Kelvin, movie star, attempts to cultivate Joslyn's acquaintance There is a near row with Rogers. Kelvin goes away leaving with Joslyn a sense of some strange influence over her. A few days afterward Kittie is brought home blind from bad booze. Joslyn rushes to Stein's Academy to take a job as a "Taxi Dancer" to care for Kittie. In the academy she meets Stephen Bates, a man-about-town, who offers to go to Kittie's help.

Kittie's life and sight are saved by the doctors secured by Bates. They both go to a party at Bates'. Kelvin is there. He kills Bates in a quarrel.

Kittie saves Joslyn by telling the police that the death row was over her

With Kelvin hiding in her apartment Joslyn is called by the district attorney. She bests him. Police watch her flat. She quarrels with Lee Rogers.

When Lee offers to help her with cash, without strings, Joslyn has a change of heart.

Joslyn yields to Kelvin. He stirs her deeply.

Joslyn, willing to care for Kelvin and herself, loses her job as a Taxi Dancer.

CHAPTER XIII.

JOSLYN hung up the receiver without replying to Stein. There was nothing to say. She was stunned.

"I'm fired," she said blankly to Kelvin. She held a note from Kittie but scarcely saw it. "They don't want me at the dance hall. On account of the notoriety."

For a moment Kelvin smiled at her distress. "Well, it was a rotten job anyway, wasn't it."

"You don't understand," Joslyn said, painfully. It isn't the job so much—"It's the disgrace of it."

"Bunk!" he assured her. Don't make me laugh! Damn it all, if I could only get at my money! You'd never have to work at all."

"All the same," she declared, I don't like to be stamped as an undesirable, even at Stein's. It goes against the grain. It's common." Kelvin moved toward her, but she pushed him away. "Don't—I don't feel like it now. I'm beginning to

HUNT FIREBUG AT NORTON

Norton, Aug. 2.—State Fire Inspector George Mansfield of Taunton today will begin investigation of the fire which destroyed the veneer mill of the Sprague and Reynolds box factory, on Main street, at a loss of $13,000.

This investigation was requested by Fire Chief Oliver White, who believes a firebug has been active in this town. When the firemen arrived at the mill the flames had gained such headway that all they could do was to keep the fire from spreading to other buildings of the factory.

1,000 MORE LEAVE FOR DEVENS

1,750 Student Soldiers 'Snap Into It' at Training Camp Today

More than 1,000 student soldiers left the North Station on two special trains today for the Citizens Military Training Camp at Camp Devens.

Seven hundred more student soldiers already had arrived at Devens. They will undergo a month's tour of duty in the training camp.

The special trains left the North Station at 8:45 and 10 a. m. and both were filled with happy and healthy looking young men who were anticipating the coming month's work in preparation to serve Uncle Sam in the event of another war.

With the arrival of this additional 1,000 student soldiers, Camp Devens began to resemble the famous war-time cantonment. There are now 1,700 student soldiers there for the Citizens' Military Training Camp, and in addition two national guard units are undergoing training at Devens.

The rest of the quota of 3,500 student soldiers from New England are to be distributed among the coast artillery at Fort Terry off New London and at Fort McKinley, off Portland, Me. The cavalry students will train at Fort Ethan Allen, Burlington, Vt.

Registration began today at Devens and the camp was extremely active from early until late. Actual training also begins today with squad drill, under the command of regular army men. Civilian clothes were changed for khaki soon after arrival.

There are still vacancies for students and aplication should be made at once to Captain Williams at the army base, South Boston.

The would-be soldier standing next is Michael Lynch of Avon, while the rest in order, sitting on suitcases, are Alex Ober, Brighton; Clinton Heitman, Brookline; Jacob K. Kezirian, Roxbury; Rene P. CAPT. MYLES IS STILL HEADLESS

Duxbury, Aug. 2.—Beheaded by a bolt of lightning, Aril 26, 1922, the statue of Captain Myles Standish, on Captain's Hill, a State park, appears destined to remain headless for some little time to come, despite the disappointment of thousands of tourists.

Last year it was decided to replace the head. The damaged section was taken down, repaired, and last week sent here to be placed in position, 120 feet from the ground.

But workmen, drilling holes in the part of the statue remaining in place, found the granite defective. Work was at once stopped, the State House [illegible] now an inspection is to be made.

POLICE SEEK BODY OF NARROW GAUGE SUICIDE

Winthrop police today began a search of the waters near Pleasant street station of the Narrow Gauge railroad on the theory that a man committed suicide there early today.

Between the tracks and the water William J. Duffy of No. 49 Pleasant Park road found a man's gray felt hat, a gabardine coat and a suitcase. Customs marks on the suitcase showed that its owner reached Boston yesterday on the boat from Yarmouth, N. S. In the suitcase were two Nova Scotia newspapers of recent date.

QUINBY IN BIG COFFEE MERGER

The Chicago branch of the W. S. Quinby Coffee Company, producers of La Touraine coffee and tea, has effected a merger with the Bell Conrad Company, famous Chicago firm of tea and coffee merchants according to announcements today by the Quincy Company's Boston headquarters.

The consolidation makes the new company one of the few really large and representative coffee roasters and coffee and tea distributors in the United States.

Bell, Conrad Company is as well known in the Chicago territory as the W. S. Quinby Company is in Boston.

W. S. Quinby, founder and directing head of the company, came to Boston from Vermont in early youth. In a few years he became owner of a small business in the market section of Boston, from which the present firm has grown to great size.

DEATH FAST STARTED IN JAIL CELL

Crippled Husband Is Embittered by Wife's Act in Breaking Pact

Miami, Fla., Aug. 2 (Universal).—Embittered because Baroness Royce Garrett sent him to play pool while she leaped nineteen stories to her death and thereby broke their pact of seven years to die together, Baron Michael Royce Garrett began starving himself to death in county jail.

The Baroness, European grand and light opera star, and favorite in Shubert's "Student Prince," during a season in America, leaped from the 19th story of the Everglades apartment Friday night, after telling her husband they were destitute and agreeing with him to carry out their suicide pact Saturday morning. "Go have a good time," she told him Friday afternoon. "Tomorrow we die as we have lived, happily together." Her American stage name was Vera Laviova.

He is being held on no charge, but simply to prevent his carrying out his part of the suicide pact.

"It doesn't matter," he said, wearily when jailed. "I'll soon starve to death. Maybe I can send my soul to join her. She wronged me by taking herself away first. She should have waited. We will soon be together again."

A student of Yogi teachings and philosophy, the Baron had told friends he could project his spirit being into space, sending his soul on wanderings into ethereal realm, while his body was at rest.

Martha Lee's Talks to Housewives

MANY USES FOR HAPPY BASKET

With a Happy Basket in the house, mother is always prepared for a suddenly planned picnic supper. Nothing appeals to dad more, when he comes into the house after a hot day in town, than to pile the whole family into the good ole bus and drive to a cool spot for supper. If there's a Happy Basket with a delicious home cooked supper placed under the back seat.

What's more restful than to choose a big, lovely, wooded spot for the picnic ground and watch the sun set behind the trees?

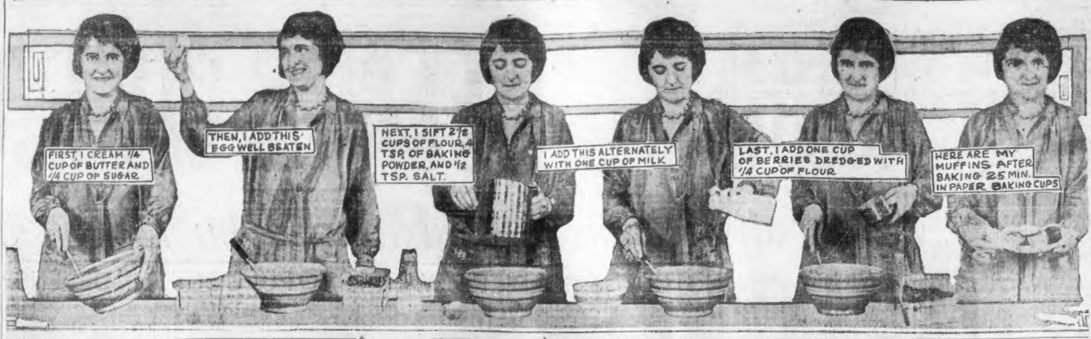
The Happy Basket should be the narrow high variety of shopping basket. (I got a peach last week for 59 cents) holds a quart of milk or a big thermos bottle upright in one corner and allows lots of room for wrapped sandwiches, fruit and cakes. This type of basket requires very little floor space and is really a very Happy Basket to have. A 125' roll of waxed paper (which can be bought in a box with the cutting bar across it), a generous supply of paper napkins, paper plates and waxed paper cups are other picnic comforts.

A big box of rubber bands of various sizes is another helpful piece of equipment and you know now you can even buy paper spoons and forks. Enameled cups are necessary for hot drinks.

Hearty meat sandwiches for the main course, a salad sandwich with lettuce and other vegetable moistened with a spicy dressing, and a sweet sandwich with jelly and nuts, really makes a three course meal.

Do trim off the crusts and be sure the bread is moist and fresh.

HERE'S A MUFFIN RECIPE THAT WILL MAKE HIM PURR



FIRST, I CREAM 1/4 CUP OF BUTTER AND 1/4 CUP OF SUGAR
THEN, I ADD THIS EGG WELL BEATEN
NEXT, I SIFT 2 1/2 CUPS OF FLOUR, 4 TSP. OF BAKING POWDER, AND 1/2 TSP. SALT.
I ADD THIS ALTERNATELY WITH ONE CUP OF MILK
LAST, I ADD ONE CUP OF BERRIES DREDGED WITH 1/4 CUP OF FLOUR
HERE ARE MY MUFFINS AFTER BAKING 25 MIN. IN PAPER BAKING CUPS

MEAT LAW ON HOT DAYS

Weather or not, I speed around the markets to get first-hand information on how you can get a few cents more than a hundred cents of value out of every dollar spent for food. As soon as the real hot weather strikes us, all classes of meat drop a bit in price. Beef is especially low, veal, lamb and pork are all a bit cheaper. Pork loins are an especially economical buy.

Now is the time to can native string and wax beans and native peas. Beans are selling at 10 to 15 cents a lb. and the peas at 10 to 20 cents a lb. Cabbage, carrots and beets are also low in price.

At the fruit counters currants, rasberries, peaches and pears are among the best buys. Cantaloupes are 10 to 25c each and transparent apples, which are good for cooking, are 4 lbs. for 25c.

Sword fish, halibut, salmon and sole are plentiful and so are mackeral, cod and haddock.

Here is a menu that will suggest uses for some of these best buys.

BREAKFAST

LUNCHEON

Boston baked beans, beet salad, bread and butter, raspberries and cream, iced tea.

DINNER

Broiled swordfish, native string beans, lyonnaise potatoes, corn bread, [illegible], maple walnut jelly with whipped cream.

Ice applied to the face after a cleansing massage leaves the skin with a soft, healthy glow. It also serves to close the pores.

HOW TO MAKE MUFFINS

Family getting a bit "picky"? Father flinty hearted—and pocketed—over requisitions for Summer time prettie? Feed the animile some of these muffins and he'll purr with contentment.

BLUEBERRY MUFFINS.

Cream ¼ cup butter and ¼ cup sugar. Then add 1 well beaten egg. Next sift together 2½ cups flour, 4 tsp. baking powder, and ½ tsp. salt and 1 tbsp. sugar. Add this alternately to the first mixture with one cup of milk. Last of all add one cup of blueberries dredged with ¼ cup of flour. Bake 25 minutes in paper baking cups which keep the muffins fresh several days—padlocked.

Cushion Covers

In making washable covers for cushions it is sometimes better to use clips instead of buttons and buttonholes as a fastening. The open side should always be stitched together at corners for an inch or so and the buttons or clips placed close together, and a good piece of the material allowed between them, as the effect of a loose cover is entirely spoiled if it is allowed to gape at the fastening.

MIX HAM AND MACARONI

SCALLOPED HAM AND MACARONI

Cook one-half package of macaroni in boiling salted water for twenty minutes; drain and rinse in cold water, season with salt, pepper and paprika. Add 2 cups of cold chopped ham, chopped quite coarse, mix thoroughly and put into baking dish. Cover with one-half inch layer of grated cheese and brown in the oven. Served with a green vegetable or a salad. This makes an appetizing, balanced Summer supper dish.

SCALLOPED HAM AND RICE

Boil 1 cup of rice in salted water for twenty minutes, letting it boil fast; drain and hold under running cold water to remove the starch. Mix with two cups of coarsely chopped cold boiled ham and arrange in a baking dish, cover with dabs of butter and sprinkle with one-half cup of brown sugar; bake until brown.

HAM WITH SWEET POTATOES

Dice equal parts of cold boiled sweet potatoes and cold boiled ham. Arrange in a buttered baking dish, covering with milk and sprinkle with one-half cupful of brown sugar. Cook in a medium oven for one-half to three-quarters of an hour.

CARE IN USE OF ICE BOX ADVISED

During the hot weather we should be especially careful to use our left-overs daily. Berries and soft fruits spoil very quickly in hot weather as we all know. A little head work will eliminate frequent openings of the ice box door which increases the temperature and reduces the keeping quality. Be sure to keep the ice chamber full all the time. This is essential to get the best service from your box.

The super-particular housewife, just before the ice man delivers the new piece of ice, takes out the old piece, puts it into a dish pan and washes it thoroughly, then she washes the inside of the ice chamber and flushes the drain pipe. About once a week she flushes this drain pipe with a little washing soda, this prevents stoppage and keeps the air in the ice box fresh and sweet. For a clean chest and low temperature this washing of the ice chamber and flushing of the drain pipe should be a daily habit, or at least should be done every time you get fresh ice.

The new glass refrigerator sets are an excellent investment. They are oblong or square and fit into each other so that the upper serves as a cover for the lower. They use very little space as they can be piled on top of each other.

A handful of bath salts or a few drops of liquid bath scent will give the bath a delightful fragrance, and it also tends to soften the water.

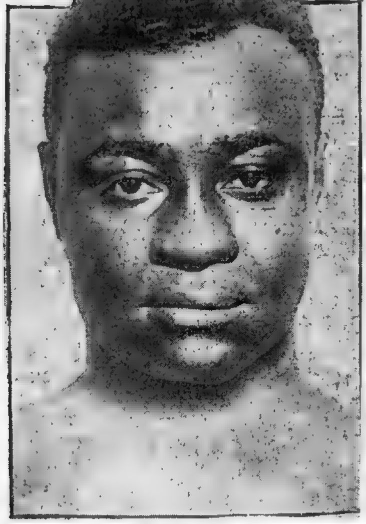
THE BLACK PANTHER



HARRY WILLS

CHASING the CHAMPION

Written by HARRY WILLS for the BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN

BY HARRY WILLS—CHAPTER I

THERE has been a mighty furore in the heavyweight ranks and my name has been the center of charges, countercharges, bickerings and squabbling.

At this moment there is much speculation as to whom Jack Dempsey will fight—if, indeed, he will ever fight again—and what new move he will make to continue dodging me in the ring and still keep his precious and rich title as heavyweight champion.

I have been requested to write the story of my life and to tell in my own way of the troubles and trials of a colored challenger for the championship.

In the story that follows I will tell why I believe I can whip Jack Dempsey and any other man living and why he will not fight me. It is a most complicated story to the public, yet to me it is simple enough.

It is not merely my color, which is dark brown, that keeps loud-vioced battlers from tasting my punch. It is another color that keeps them away, and that color belongs to those who shout and bark at me from a safe distance.

THAT COLOR IS A DEEP YELLOW.

Since the days of London prize ring rules, there have been fighters who discredited their game. And among them there have been negroes But I think there have been more decent, self-respecting boxers, whether white or black, than the baser sort.

Several Great Colored Boxers

I do not think I am boasting when I say that my record has been clean. I certainly have brought no discredit on the only profession that I know how to practice well.

In the history of the ring there have been not a few negroes who have upheld the decent side of boxing. To name but a few, there were Langford, Gans and the great Peter Jackson.

I think that my manner of living and my reputation as an American citizen cannot be used as an argument against my being allowed a chance. I know that many of our finest citizens laugh at the whimsical idea put forth that if I won the championship there would be race riots and race hatred.

Boxing is anybody's game—from the standpoint of the competitors. I know of famous negro racers who won their way to the top without causing any race riots.

I know of negro football players who were stars and who didn't inspire any hatred by their clean, honest methods.

I know of negro lawyers and negro professional men who can plead law cases, preach sermons or write books without causing our white friends any unnecessary pain. Why, then, should boxing and boxers be an exception?

When one of the greatest of negro fighters, Sam Langford, flattened white opponents, there were no outcries from white folk. Indeed, the white men who met Langford often became his closest friends.

Sure He Can Defeat Champion

Indeed, his one great enemy was a man of his own race, Jack Johnson. As to Johnson, I have nothing to say. He is a part of the past now, and if there has been criticism of him, it surely cannot be used as an indictment of others of negro blood, any more than the fact that Gerald Chapman, the white bandit, should be used to prove that all white men are thieves and robbers.

James J. Corbett, who was and still is one of the ornaments of the boxing game, didn't turn feather when he had a chance to meet the great Jackson. But, alas, the champion of Corbett's class in or out of the ring is not with us today.

In this series—which I feel that I am entitled to present to the public in light of various claims set forth by boxers—I will try to show that a colored champion can be a credit to his profession and to his race.

I will have to be mighty lucky to get Dempsey into the ring with me, but if I should get him there I will win and win inside of six rounds.

Tomorrow—Wells blames Jack Kearns for failure of his efforts to get Dempsey into the ring.

CASEY MOURNS LOSS OF GRID PLAYERS

Eddie Casey, Harvard's star all-American halfback who will coach the Crimson freshmen this Fall, today bemoaned the loss of last year's three cub stars to the varsity. The trio, Linscott, O'Connell and Burns will not be available for varsity football this Fall, O'Connell having left college for business and the other two having run into scholastic difficulties.

"O'Connell," said Casey, "looked like one of the best at [illegible] Harvard has had in some time. Burns, though light, had a lot of nerve and would have teamed well with O'Connell on the varsity wings.

"As for Linscott, he should have turned into a fine all around back. He has an [illegible] and his ability as a punter would have been invaluable to the team."

Casey will begin work with his yearling squad September 30, as there is a rule which keeps the freshmen from playing until the first day of college.

Kearns Finds Buffalo Promoters Skeptical About Champ's Size

By JACK KEARNS
CHAPTER NINETEEN

MURRAY was a scream to watch. He raved like a mad man that day in Buffalo. I'll admit Dempsey didn't look like a man big enough to fight Morris as he stretched out on the bed but Murray saw him dwindle to a lightweight when I finally got Jack up on his feet to shake hands.

Murray almost wept. "You've ruined me, Kearns. I've sold my house out, and here you bring a welterweight to fight this big guy. I'm going good in this town. I'll be here when you're forgotten, and do you think I'm chump enough to risk my future here by putting this little fellow in to be slaughtered by big Carl Morris?

"The fight is off! It's cold with me. I wouldn't even show this little guy. You must be daffy to think that he can fight Morris. You can pack up and go, so far as I'm concerned. I'll call the show off. My partners will shoot me when they see this little fellow. You've made a sweet sucker out of me."

Jack Kearns

Well, I had to let Murray get it off his chest. He had expected some sort of a giant, I guess. [illegible] going around breaking legs in a [illegible] to look the part of the hairy monster, I [illegible] and Murray was [illegible].

[illegible] finished sputtering, I horned in. I didn't blame Charley so much, for Dempsey has always been deceiving in his looks.

Jack Dempsey

Tex Rickard had to do a lot of [illegible] Toledo to [illegible] visiting scribes that he wasn't putting on a murder instead of a bout. And [illegible] in his heart Tex always thought that Willard would win that fight because Dempsey was "too small." He told his close friends that [illegible] fight. I know that. He had even planned [illegible] of the world for Willard following the fight [illegible] Dempsey.

I felt sorry for Murray. He took it to heart, this size of Dempsey business. He pleaded with me to duck out of town. It wouldn't be too late. He could tell them anything and he had the blizzard to fall back on. Beat it quick before the cops saw Dempsey. On our way

I had to talk some against that kind of stuff. Murray was in a panic and my assignment was to brush him down.

"Murray," I began, "there's no cause for all this noise. Just because that big stiff Morris weighs a ton is no reason why we have to. This fellow I've got here will knock him out for you. [illegible] or we don't want any money.

"You can make new terms right now and [illegible]. We're here [illegible] Morris and [illegible] body else. I'll guarantee that [illegible] lick him and [illegible] make you, as a promoter."

Murray protested. He was walking around the room with his hands clasped behind his head. You'd have thought that it was his last hour before the electric chair.

Dempsey took a hand. "Listen Mr. Murray. I'll beat this fellow," threatened Dempsey. "Size means nothing to me. You needn't worry about me. I've taken [illegible] self against better [illegible] Morris.

"I'll hang him over the ropes for you. If I don't hang him over the ropes, I don't want a [illegible]. I'll go into the ring tonight [illegible] that agreement. Hang him over the ropes or no pay."

"Listen, sonny," said Murray, putting his hand on Dempsey's shoulders, "you look like a nice kid. You

This contest, everybody, is taking like moths to a closetful of old clothes. We already have an obit on hand for the poor contest editor who is showing signs of overwork even this early in the game.

It couldn't help but take. The idea is fundamentally sound. All sincere fans are grasping at this remarkable opportunity to express concretely their support to their particular favorite. It is such a contest that even those who see their friends lose will harbor no rancor for the winners.

Just now Helen Wills is leading. If you want your favorite athlete to head the procession, send in your ballot now. And have your friends send in theirs.

CHAPMAN LEADS RIVALS IN BARRAGE OF BALLOTS

FINNEGAN IS SECOND IN BATTLE

Cast Your Ballot in American's Contest to Pick the Featherweight King

By JACK CONWAY

Jack Conway

WHO is the world's featherweight champion?

Red Chapman of Dorchester leads in the first test vote taking by the Boston Evening American. Here's the count to date: Chapman, 9[illegible]; Finnegan, [illegible]; Suggs, 7[illegible]; Bass, [illegible]; Herman, 1[illegible]; [illegible] Glick, [illegible].

The Boston Evening American believes that the public should be the final judge as to who is the world's featherweight king. Rulings of the New York Athletic Commission and similar bodies on the question of who is champion are merely the opinion of con[illegible]ed men.

No individual or group of individuals has the right to proclaim any boxer champion of his class.

The public is the real jury to de[illegible].

NEW ENGLAND fans are deeply interested in this featherweight controversy. They have thrown most of their strength to Chapman, Finnegan and Suggs. There seems little question but that when the featherweight situation is finally ironed out that one of these three men will be hailed as [illegible] of his boxing division.

Chapman and Finnegan are expected to sign articles today for a bout at Braves Field the latter part of this month. The winner of the Chapman-Finnegan mill will be called upon to meet Suggs. These two bouts should help to clarify the [illegible] situation.

MEANWHILE the indignant fight fans of New England continue to protest against the shabby treatment Chapman received from the New York Athletic Commission. Here are some of the letters received by this writer:

ALL MEN ARE CREATED EQUAL'

'One of the greatest injustices has just been handed to our local favorite. The 'Czar' Boxing Commission of New York is the sole rulers of this sport. Their word is supreme and is accepted by all the [illegible] boxing commissions of the States. This is a disgrace to all lovers of this sport.

The sporting fans of Boston and vicinity and the newspapers should insist that our boy called Moe Kaplan alias Red Chapman be recognized as one of the leading contenders for the featherweight crown.

He should not be toyed with by the N. Y. Boxing Commission. My advice is to all fans of this sport to work in harmony and have Red called our champion.

MAX SANDLER

Congratulations to you! You have hit the nail right on the head in regard to Boston's own Red Chapman.

One of the most distasteful and decidedly unfair suspensions has been thrown onto Chapman by the New York Commission. No boxer in the country has ever been given the "run-around" as has the real world's featherweight champion, Red Chapman. Red has been matched in two title bouts with Kaplan, the New York champion, running out both times. He consented to a match with Babe Herman whom he has already beaten, only to have the Babe report sick. Now it appears that the only way Red can get into the ring with a New York show is to take residence in the East Side or Harlem of New York, and when he finally gets a title bout and wins it, the New York sports will claim him as their own.

GEORGE MANN
Chelsea."

Has not Red Chapman, the uncrowned featherweight champ, beaten enough men to suit the N. Y. Boxing Commission? In my opinion, Chapman has shown the fistic world that he is the champ. Did he ever side-step any man? No, of course he didn't.

The Massachusetts Boxing Commission will be foolish if it does not break its working agreement with New York.

Come on Boston. Fight for our own Red."

No other fight fan was more stirred by the news of Chapman's denial of the right to fight Herman than I. As a great admirer of 'Red' Chapman and the fact that he is from my city, I feel certain that he's being 'gypped' of the title by the [illegible] moguls' of fisticuffs.

'If we had any doubt in our mind of his ability, a tournament is only right. But isn't he the cream of the featheral[illegible]

He began at the very bottom, played fair, was classed as the cleanest of fighters, became a great favorite, fought every 'Tom, Dick' and 'Harry,' and defeated them all.

He should be awarded the title.

If some fans are carrying the defeat by Suggs in their minds, would it not be [illegible] to consider that Suggs trained hard indoors for this bout and our friend 'Red' worked out in the open. Then the night of the bout was as hot as our warm Summer nights. Did we expect 'Red' to be at his best with an indoor bout to contend with?

I believe in fair play. Let us pull together, fellow admirers, and see that 'Red' gets his long awaited chance.

We demand a show-down.'

H. HENRY McCARTHY,
Chelsea."

In your column you stated that you wished your readers' views on the Chapman affair. First of all you are to be congratulated on starting the movement that will no doubt cause a deep furrow in the minds of that group, the so-called New York Boxing Commission.'

This group have shown on numerous occasions their inability to represent the State of New York as a board of boxing commissioners. Of course, it is to be expected that men are not infallible to errors, but these men abuse the privilege.

There is not much that I can say to help the cause, thanks to the splendid way that you handled it in your column, but I certainly agree with you, that the Massachusetts Commission should break with the New York Commission and either name Red as champion or else stage their own elimination contest, having Chapman fight Finnegan, the winner to fight Suggs. Between the three these boys have beaten the best in their class, and it seems that Boston could stage these fights just as well as New York.

GLENNA COLLETT'S IMPORTANT POINTS FOR WOMEN GOLFERS

COMFORTABLE CLOTHES ESSENTIAL…

OPEN STANCE WITH RIGHT FOOT FORWARD

Glenna Collett's Fourteen Points for Golf Players

GOLF doesn't mean sacrifices a girl hates to make.

IT is a sport in which one plays one's own game.

IT teaches broadmindedness and self-control.

IT is splendid exercise for women.

I USE the overlapping grip, with the left hand on top; and just the opposite for putting.

MY stance is open with the right foot slightly forward.

I NEVER think of anything technical when I start my swing.

MY wrist movement is easy, without a "flick."

I THINK my next shot out some time before I play it.

DO I get nervous? Of course. You have to, to play good golf.

THE clothes should be practical and comfortable, but not gaudy.

PLAY safe in medal play; "shoot for it" in match play.

IN match play remember: Keep your nerve. Don't watch your opponent. Plan your shots carefully.

TO improve your game. Take lessons from a good professional. Practice your weak shots. Choose your clubs carefully. Take great pains with your short game.

Glenna Collett Gives Interview on the Many Intricacies of Golf

Glenna Collett, golf champion among American women, joins Bobby Jones, "Bill" Tilden and Helen Wills in telling through the Associated Press how she reached her championship. Miss Collett explains her game in detail to Miss Ethel M. Halsey of the Associated Press, tells of her tournament temperament, even to the extent of admitting an occcasional "cuss" word, tells how women golfers should dress and lists the more promising of younger players women. The Associated Press copyrights the interview.

By ETHEL M. HALSEY

EASTERN POINT, Conn., Aug. 2 (A.P.)—The girl who was hailed when she first held a golf club nine years ago as "the girl who can drive a ball like a man," today, when she is America's woman champion for the second time, declares that all a woman can hope for is to be as good a golfer as she can be with the handicap of being a woman."

She is Glenna Collett, at 23 twice national woman's champion, winner of international honors, and she holds this view in spite of the fact that she has just won the Griswold trophy here by playing golf which sport writers describe as "a game that would have need a [illegible]." In September, at Philadelphia, she will once more defend her national title. She loves the sport and sincerely believes it is the best there is for women, although she recognizes clearly its limitations to her sex.

FOUR REASONS.

"Sometimes when I get up to drive off the first tee I am so nervous that I want to lie down and die," said the woman champion. "I feel as though I couldn't possibly hit the ball. I think "What price glory?" and "Why suffer all this for a game of golf?" and then I hit the ball better than ever and get a real thrill out of it, and everything is all right, and I know why I play golf.

"But aside from this personal feeling of mine, I have four reasons for thinking golf is the best sport for women:

"First, it doesn't mean sacrifices that a girl would not like to make," said Miss Collett, who swims, drives a car, rides, dances, enjoys bridge and the theatre and owns a host of friends off the links as well as on them.

Second, golf is a sport in which one plays one's own game, regardless of partner or opponent, man or woman, and this is important for the athletic woman, since she is then relying on her own strength, standing on her own feet and feeling the joy of independent achievement.

"Third, golf is a 'game' as well as a sport, and as such it teaches women a wonderful lesson in broadmindedness. It cannot help making women more sportsmanlike. It is like an honor system in school. It develops the best side of a girl's character, teaching her implicit honesty with herself, generosity to an opponent, fairmindedness and self-control.

"Last, which I might have put first, golf is splendid exercise for a woman. It keeps her out in the open air, in the sun and the wind, makes her walk many miles a day and in its drives and other strokes develops body muscles tending to strengthen and make more graceful her whole body."

Miss Collett was asked to describe in as much detail as possible her grip, her stance and her swing, her technique, constituting for women golfers what Bobby Jones' style would be for men.

"I use the overlapping grip, holding the club with my left hand on top, the right little finger and [illegible] between the second and third of the left hand, which grips the shaft tightly," she said.

"For putting I change my grip to just the opposite, [illegible] putting [illegible] with my right hand, with the left first finger overlapping the little finger of the right hand.

USES OPEN STANCE.

"My stance is open, with the right foot slightly forward of the left, and [illegible] the same for putting as for the drive.

"When I get ready to swing, I try not to think of anything technical. I concentrate on the timing and think a little of the direction, but absolutely dismiss thoughts of my body's motion, position of my arms, wrists, and so one.

"When I swing I don't pivot from the waist, but slightly away, going up on the left toe and [illegible] the weight onto the right foot. My [illegible] is nearly straight [illegible] back swing and my left [illegible] the club closely at the top of the back swing.

"I start the body [illegible] at the same time as the backswing [illegible] [illegible].

"Unlike Bobbie Jones, I do think of my next shot for some time before I make it. I think that is the only way to do. I plan out just how I am going to make it, think out the distance, decide what is the best club to use, and so on.

What advice would you give women golfers [illegible]

"What do you think about smoking [illegible] golfers," Miss Collett [illegible] asked next.

"I think it is simply a matter of personal choice," she replied. "I don't smoke, but I don't advise others not to, for I don't see that it could do the golf game any harm. After all, golf is not a matter of wind—unless it happens to blow your way."

"Do [illegible]

"For [illegible] for [illegible]

"Second [illegible]

[illegible]

"I would say [illegible] from a good professional [illegible] practice [illegible] very careful in [illegible] your short game.

"The short game is in my opinion far the most important thing for a woman. She cannot hope to get the power and distance in her drives that a man can, but she can become a better putter, and show more skill in her approach shots."

Then you don't [illegible] golf [illegible]

Far from Ordinary

Smoke a LUCKY STRIKE and you'll appreciate its difference from the ordinary cigarette.

Why?

Of course, LUCKY STRIKES are made from the finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos. Properly aged. Perfectly blended.

Even if we stopped there, LUCKY STRIKES would be superior cigarettes.

But for three results, we add at great expense an elaborate toasting process which (1) removes all "bite" and harshness and (2) develops the hidden flavors of the world's finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos. Then (3) sudden chilling seals these moisture flavors in, keeping LUCKIES ever fresh.

This added process is the difference between the ordinary and the extra-ordinary. It is the reason millions prefer LUCKY STRIKES.

BECAUSE IT'S TOASTED

That's Why Luckies Taste So Good

BUDGET AIDS CLOTHING PROBLEMS

How to Succeed in Keeping Outgo in Bounds

BUDGET CLUB NO. 116

By MARTHA LEE

"I HAVE an income of $ [illegible] a year [illegible] How much of [illegible] be set aside for clothing [illegible] writes Mrs. H. L. P. As her question is one of several hundred along this line, [illegible] talk a little more about clothing problems.

Our best Budgeteers tell us that 15 per cent of the total income should cover the clothing needs of the family. This opinion is indorsed by the United States Thrift Budget. Different occupations of the individual workers make a difference in the clothing requirements.

Then, too, some women are far more clever than others in their knowledge of [illegible] in buying advantageously and [illegible] ability to make and mend garments and to give their clothing the best care.

Unless the worker [illegible] according to the standards for her occupation, her efficiency [illegible] impaired from a lack of feeling of ease and self-possession. Sometimes the holding of the position itself depends to a considerable degree on conforming to a certain standard of clothing.

The clothing question is the next thing of importance to food and housing in budgeting. If the clothing requirements are to be met from [illegible] family living on a moderate income, intelligent thought must be given to [illegible]

[illegible] State colleges of [illegible] nomics Division are very helpful. So are the bulletins issued by the State agricultural colleges. All are agreed that [illegible] necessities.

When it comes to operating expenses the Department of Labor and the United States Thrift Budget differ. The Thrift Budget allows 10 per cent of the income for operating expenses, which means fuel, light, telephone, insurance on furniture, gas and household supplies [illegible] $1 and [illegible] [illegible] find that through careful study economies can be effected under operating.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Dear Mrs. M. [illegible] you are sticking to Budget [illegible] are the answers to your second set of questions. Dentist's bills come [illegible] vacations and husband's weekly spending money.

Insurance comes out of savings; payments on vacuum cleaner out of operating [illegible] groceries, $10 a week; back bills $5 a week, insurance $1.25 weekly; gas $2 a week, milk 77 cents. Finds it hard to plan for clothing and other things.

[illegible] $3 for savings, $6 [illegible] shelter, including husband's carfares, if any; $10 for food, $4 for clothing, $1 for operating and personal, $2.50.

As you are fortunate enough to have a low rent you can take $4 from your shelter fund and add it to personal. Your gas bill seems very high to me. It seems as [illegible] a longer period of time. This is going to leave you very short under personal if you pay $5 weekly.

Mrs. H. [illegible] husband makes $[illegible] a week with holidays and rainy days [illegible]

Are you in the rut of financial worry? Budget will help you out and show you the way to fields of plenty.

Practical Hints on Spending by a Plan

Pays $5 a month rent (lives in Rhode Island), $2.60 a month for gas, $10 for food, $1.50 for husband's carfare, $1.50 weekly on furniture and $3.25 a month on other furniture.

Also $5 on other bills. Never has a penny for clothing and personal expenses. Hopes Budget will help as must save for hospital bill in Fall and has nothing in the bank.

In your case it would be better to budget $22 a week to be on the safe side. This would usually allow you weekly $2.20 for savings, $4.40 for shelter and business carfares, $8.50 for food, $3.30 for clothing, $2.30 for operating and $2.30 for personal. You will have a small surplus under shelter of $1.05 after your husband's carfares are paid and this you had better add to personal or savings towards the hos[illegible]

Mrs. F. M. A. pays $30 a month rent out of $22 a week income. Pays $2 a month for electricity and $1.50 a week insurance, milk $1.70 weekly and laundry 75c every other week. After the food is bought there is little left for amusement, or clothes.

I am sorry you forgot to tell me how many in your family. A $22 budget for three people would line up about like this: Shelter $4.40, food $7.50, clothing $2.30, operating $3.30 including gas, heat, light and laundry, savings $2.20 and personal $2.30 and insurance premiums come out of savings. As your rent is high (you are paying almost $7 weekly whereas $4.40 is the proper percentage including business carfares) you will have to pare the difference from your other allotments, but it is difficult to see where. I am afraid the only solution of your problem is for your husband to find some way to add to the family income. Budget will help a lot but when fixed expenses are higher than income he is helpless. Either the expenses must be reduced or the income increased.

TARNISHED WINGS

by BEATRICE BURTON

Author of 'GILDED KISSES' and 'PIRATE OF HEARTS'

Story of a Boston Girl Who Liked Jazz Music and the Bright Lights

CHAPTER XLI

Copyright, 1926 Johnson Features, Inc.

MERRY smothered a sharp little scream as she wheeled around toward the window.

For there, in the light that streamed out from the room, she could make out the white blur of a face. A man's face!

Merry's hands went to her frightened face. "O-o-oh!" she said, somewhere between a groan and a sigh.

For the face outside the window was the fat, heavy-jowled face of Bill Erskine! How long he had been standing there on the porch she couldn't guess. But without a shadow of doubt, he had seen her in Les Purcell's arms! He couldn't have helped seeing her!

"Les!" she said in a sick little whisper, "now look what you've done! That's the man I'm engaged to!" Her face was almost comic with dispair.

"Look what I've done?" she heard Les echo her, with a laugh, as she flew into the hall. "I didn't do anything, did I? There's no nineteenth amendment against kissing a pretty girl, is there?"

She flung open the door and Bill came into the house.

"I'm afraid I'm in the way, Merry. Two's company, eh?" he greeted her. He was smiling, with his lips, but his eyes held that cruel glint that she had noticed in them before.

She took his coat from him and he followed her into the sitting room.

Her voice sounded faint and far away to her own ears as she introduced the two men—"Mr. Erskine, Mr. Purcell."

Bill shook hands with Les, and said he was very glad to meet him as if he meant it. He even offered him one of his fat black cigars, and Les took it.

They all sat down in front of the fire.

Bill began to talk about the French debt, about Florida real estate, about Bobby Jones' game of golf, about—anything. But every now and then he would give Merry one of those keen, quick glances of his—and there was something in his face that she had never seen in it until now.

Finally she got up and murmuring something about powder for her nose, she made her escape from the room.

She closed the door of her bedroom behind her and faced herself in the glass. Her face was white and solemn.

"Well, Merry," she said aloud, "I guess you've done for yourself this time, old girl."

She was sure she had! She was sure that she had lost Bill Erskine. He would never marry her now that he had seen her in Les Purcell's arms. He would probably go away, just as Tony Gates had!

"Anyway I haven't any ring to send back this time," she told herself.

She looked down at the watch bracelet a-glitter on her wrist. She made up her mind that she'd never send that back to Bill anyway! No indeed! She'd keep that! There was no earthly reason why she should give it back to Bill any more than she should return to him all the rest of the presents he had given her.

She looked around the room at them—the peacock fan, the piece of Chinese embroidery, the silver cigaret box, the tortoise shell toilet articles. They were just presents. Nothing more.

She Didn't Really Care if She Lost Erskine or Not

Then, all at once, it came to her that she didn't really care whether she lost Bill Erskine or not! Not really.

"If I hadn't been lonesome and blue about Tony, I'd never have looked at Bill, in the first place," Merry confessed the truth to herself, at last, "and if he hadn't had a lot of money to spend on me I probably never would have wanted to marry him."

With her chin held high and her green eyes sparkling she marched downstairs and sat down on the [illegible] sofa next to Les Purcell.

"Isn't this the long [illegible] to have two [illegible] friends in one [illegible]" she [illegible] one to the other of them. "I've heard of [illegible] happening to other girls but never happened to me before! What do you suppose I ought to do [illegible] you both? Would you like [illegible] Welsh rarebit?"

Bill, who was always ready to eat, said that he would.

They went into Moms' neat blue and white kitchen.

There was no cheese in the [illegible] box and Merry would not have known how to make the rarebit even if there had been.

But there was a big dish of scalloped oysters left over from supper and Merry heated them on the stove. Les with an apron tied around him made rounds of toast and a pot of coffee.

Seated on one corner of the kitchen table Bill Erskine chewed at his black cigar and watched the pair of them silently.

Merry went in the dark dining room for some coffee cups and Les followed her.

"I'll help you carry them out," he offered, and Merry piled his arms high with cups and plates and napkins.

When she turned to go back to the kitchen, Bill was standing in the doorway. And as she tried to pass him he suddenly pinned her close to him with his big arms, and gave her a hard, long kiss on her mouth.

As he did it, she saw that he was not looking at her but at Les Purcell. There was a defiant look in his eyes, as if he wanted Les Purcell to know that he was kissing her because he had a right to do it. That she belonged to him and to nobody else.

Then he let her go.

"You'll pardon us for that, Purcell, won't you?" he asked as if he didn't care whether Les would pardon him or not. "I haven't seen my girl for a long time."

He nodded gently and went back to the corner of the table where he had left his cigar.

"I like the way you say that. Like [illegible]" Merry blazed out [illegible] "MY girl, you say, as if I [illegible] to you! MY hat! MY black [illegible] MY Mason [illegible]" [illegible] she spoke. [illegible] she ended by singing the last words [illegible].

For [illegible] to her in a flash that Bill was jealous of Les Purcell and Merry knew, as every woman knows, that there are some men who care most for a woman when some other man is paying her attention.

"Les! Come here and chop some ice for me," she called wickedly, disappearing into the pantry.

She knew perfectly well that there was no ice in the box. Moms, who made a religion of ceremony, never bought a cent's worth of ice after Labor Day, no matter how hot the weather was. Just as she never began to take it until Decoration Day every Spring.

Lily Looked More Showy Than Ever in a New Suit

"I'll chop it for you! Where's the icepick?" Bill almost bellowed as he heaved himself from the edge of the table.

"Never mind—I guess there isn't any," Merry answered, coming out from the darkness of the pantry. "But you can pour some water into those glasses if you want to make yourself useful, Bill."

While they were eating the scalloped oysters Moms and Lily came home from their evening's [illegible].

They came straight through the house to the brightly lighted kitchen.

Moms was in her usual black. But Lily looked more showy than ever in a new Fall suit that matched the color of her hair. On one side of her head was the most brilliant of scarlet satin hats and there were huge pearl earrings screwed into her roughed ears.

A string of pearls, as big as mothballs, circled her fat neck. Her heels were the tallest heels known to the shoe trade, and the perfume that came from her clothes was without doubt the strongest perfume on the French market. She shone and she glittered and she rustled and she threw off clouds of scent as she stood in the doorway smiling down into Bill Erskine's eyes with her little shrewd ones.

"You don't remember me, Tubby, do you?" she asked him in that thick, amiable fat woman's voice of hers. "You've completely forgotten me, haven't you?"

Bill got up from his chair, still clutching his napkin in his hand.

"I'm afraid I have," he said, and Merry could tell by the very sound of his voice that he hadn't forgotten her at all!

It was perfectly plain to everyone in the room that he remembered her only too well!

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

You have helped so many on the subject of etiquette that I know you can help me.

I expect to have an informal wedding at my home having just the groom's family and mine at the reception. But I would like to have a little gathering of my friends after the reception and want to write them a note inviting them, but I do not know how to word it. Could you give me some information concerning their invitation?

A READER.

THE invitation to your friends to come to the small reception that you wish to have after your marriage might be worded something like this (on your very best letter paper and in your very best handwriting and form):

Dear Elizabeth:

Bob and I, as you know, are to be married at my home on Wednesday, the seventh of June, and we are inviting to the ceremony only the members of the immediate families. But we are both anxious to have a few of our closest friends come to greet us and wish us well after the ceremony. And of course we are most eager to have you come, dear Elizabeth. Will you come in about 4 o'clock and give us your best wishes? Do say yes!

Dearest wishes to you from Bob and me, and high hopes of seeing you on the seventh.

Most devotedly yours,

MEDBURY SAYS---

By John P. Medbury

[illegible]

A GIRL has to be married the third time before she's no longer considered an amateur.

THE best plan would be for the city to print licenses like commutation books.

THEN every time the owner got married the minister could punch the license.

A LOT of people think that Peggy Joyce has married every man in the world, but she hasn't: Pauline Frederick has married some of them.

THERE are plenty of men to go around, but most of them go around too much.

MARRIAGE [illegible] know when to stop.

THE [illegible]

BY [illegible]

THE [illegible] for [illegible] are relatives.

THESE are thrown in. And later on a lot of them are thrown out.

BY limiting people to three weddings, hundreds of girls who have only been married twice will feel like old maids.

WHILE the majority of women wed for love, a lot of them just get married to better their alimony.

THEY want smaller husbands and bigger payments.

SEVERAL officials want to make it harder for people to get married. That's mean, marriage is hard enough as it is.

DAILY SHORT STORY -:- -:- -:- -:-

'TINA STEPS OUT

By Louise Peple Armstrong

MURRAY GREEN sat on the edge of Ernestine Oliver's desk, his big dark eyes full of devotion [illegible] rested upon her blonde, bobbed head a devotion which he tried to conceal in his harsh voice.

"Sign up for that crazy jig contest an[illegible]

"I've stood for a lot, 'Tina, and you know it!" he continued in tones which he forced into firmness. "I've taken you to that dancin' place against my wishes and judgment, just because you're so keen to shake a foot. But now I won't stand for my girl to go there, makin' a show of herself, dancin' in a Charleston marathon before a mob of cheap skates."

Ernestine's blue eyes blazed and she shifted her wad of gum for better articulation. "You've said it, Bud! Now roll your hoop!"

"What do you [illegible]" cried the youth in [illegible] surprise.

For answer she slipped the slim circle with its chip of sparkly stone from her chubby finger and laid it on her outstretched, rosy palm.

He took the little ring in his nerveless hand and absently put it into his pocket, departing, he turned back once more, with a gesture of eloquent pleading.

"You're not really goin' to do that dancin', 'Tina? Are you now?"

'Tina tossed her blonde curls.

"Miss Oliver, if you please, Mr. Green! and I am going to dance in that marathon tonight! I'll tell the world I am!"

At 5 o'clock he heard 'Tina give a last click to her typewriter, then a few minutes later heard her desk bang. The evening was a long one. Eventually, Murray took note of the fact that he was within three doors of the Coliseum.

And in there 'Tina was d[illegible]! He could picture her, her [illegible] little face aflame with the ardor of the dance. He must go in and look at her—it was a concession, but she'd never know of it!

About a roped-off space on the dance floor, the animated throng had packed and cheering vociferously. One voice arose shrilly above the crowd around him, "Hey, there, Blondie! Show a little more pep, sister!" Murray could have choked the red-faced simp beside him.

Then he caught sight of 'Tina.

She was dressed up in a wisp of green gown, and her little black patent-leather feet stamped, shuffled and skipped across the polished floor in abandonment.

One of the girl contestants dropped out. It was the first [illegible] Murray [illegible] the existence of the [illegible].

[illegible] was [illegible] left a fat girl, a long-limbed youth, whom the crowd shouted at as to "Jim," the only male contestant, and 'Tina. The fat girl stumbled, her feet shuffled and she made an agonized effort to get in step with the music again. The director hurried across the floor and tapped her on the shoulder.

"Now, sister, show your stuff!" the crowd yelled to 'Tina.

The flush of shame came again to Murray's cheeks, made him clench his helpless hands harder. The boy Jim danced madly across the floor, almost collided with 'Tina, but she ducked quickly and spun away from him.

They continued to dance, eyeing each other in an intensity of hope. Murray's heart quickened at the sight of 'Tina, she was so pretty, and she could dance! He [illegible] feel, but a curious sense of pride in her was [illegible], all his [illegible].

A wave of faintness came over him as he saw 'Tina falter, catch herself quickly and then dance to the edge of the crowd. An usher handed her a cup of [illegible].

The boy [illegible] as she bent her head to drink, and with a sudden spin knocked the half-empty cup from her grasp. 'Tina paused for an instant and Murray saw a frightened look in her blue eyes.

She must not stop! He wanted her to win! Waving his arms frantically above the crowd he shouted "Go to it, 'Tina! You've got him beat a mile, girl!" The crowd took up the cry. "Go to it, 'Tina!" they shouted.

'Tina glanced quickly over the sea of faces, and looked into Murray's eyes. Over her flushed face there came a bright and happy smile that wiped away completely the [illegible] [illegible] 'Tina [illegible] her little feet fly[illegible].

The boy Jim gasped and stumbled, [illegible] across the space and seized little 'Tina's arm, [illegible] of victory. The crowd [illegible]! 'Tina had won!

Amidst his perplexities, a soft, warm little hand found its way into his own, and he looked down into the blue eyes of 'Tina. He [illegible] and cold pressed against his [illegible].

"[illegible] Murray," she said. "[illegible] Mr. [illegible] Murray Green."

His [illegible] hands [illegible] with happiness as he [illegible] circlet back upon her [illegible] finger, where it belonged, and drew her within the circle of his protecting arm.

MRS. SOLOMON SAYS---

By Helen Rowland

HOW, my Son, shall a man fathom the psychology of Woman?

For, unto a woman that knoweth one man well, all men are as canned sardines, which may be worked with the same key. But women are as the Yale locks, no two of which are alike.

And each woman is as a man's golf arm, which is never the same two days in succession.

Go to. One woman wisheth to be pitied and petted and patronized—and another demandeth that her intelligence be respected and her opinions harkened unto.

The Cunarder longeth to be babied and cuddled—and the Half-portion asserteth her independence and refuseth to be waited upon.

The Beauty craveth to be admired for her mental charms—and the Highbrow sigheth to be loved for the dimple in her elbow and the curve of her ankle.

One damsel desireth to be lifted over the rough places, piloted across the street and guided through life—and another glorieth in going her OWN WAY, and is wroth if a man treateth her as a helpless moron.

Verily, verily, this is an Age of Peevish Women when no man can see whither he goeth, nor WHERE he shall land!

LITTLE BOBBIE AND HIS PA

By William F. Kirk

OUR teacher was telling us about Powr & Speed yesterday, she sed that thay was two (2) difarnt things, for instants, sed our teacher, a brewry horse has power, a brewry horse she sed, but it lacks speed.

The stuff the brewry horses are hauling now lacks speed, sed Pa, yure dear teecher sed a mouth full, sed Pa.

She ment the brewry horse lacked speed, I sed to my dad. She sed sum vary strong men was vary slow, mentully & fizzikully.

She nevver met your deer father, Bobbie, sed Ma. I will say it quick beefoar he gits a chanst to say it, sed Ma.

You are rite, wife, she nevver met me, sed Pa. In me she wud beehold a gent wich is both swift & strong, sed Pa, eeven tho I prubly shud not be the one to say it.

You must be the one to say it, sed Ma, I haf herd you say it offen enuff, sed Ma.

Yes, Bobbie, sed Pa, it is not a common thing to see grate powr & grate speed in the saim horse or in the saim man or in the saim animile of any kind. The Ellefant & the Rye Nosseros are vary strong, sed Pa, but thay cant travel like a Jack Rabbit, Pa sed. A truck has grate hauling powr but it can keep up with a racing ottermobile, sed Pa. & lots of men with vary powerful branes are rather slow in thare thinking, sed Pa. It is seldum the grate thinker, sed Pa, wich is the quickest talker.

You cant be a vary grate thinker then, father, sed me to my dad. I thot I better call him father if I was going to give him a Jolt, so I wuddent haf the saim chanst of gitting slammed like I wud haf if I talked fresh.

& how do you maik that out, preshus son? sed Pa.

Beekaus you talk a lot & talk pritty fast, I sed, so you cant be a grate thinker.

Yure father is a grate hand at thinking he is a grate thinker, Bobbie, sed Ma. & I suppoas that helps sum.

Keap off the line, you, sed Pa to Ma.

Just who are you telling to keap off the line? sed Ma kind of snearing.

Nobody, sed Pa, you haf the saim rite to talk that I haf, sed Pa.

You nevver douted that for a minnit, did you? sed Ma.

Not me, sed Pa. Bobbie, sed Pa, youre mother proves what I was saying about Powr & Speed, sed Pa. She is vary quick in her talk & ackshuns, sed Pa, but it is all on the surfiss, Pa sed, like foam on a streem. She lacks Powr.

Do you reely think so? sed Ma, kind of slow.

But you maik up for it in Charm & Buty, sed Pa kind of quick.

That is better, sed Ma. It is not up to you to tell me what I lack, Ma sed. If you want to keap on talking in this house, sed Ma, be moast careful what you say.

I dident say nothing but I was thinking that wile Ma is in our house it is pritty hard for Pa or me or anybody else to keap on talking, no matter how much Powr or Speed thay haf.

SECRETS OF HEALTH

By Charles A. L. Reed, M. D.
Former President of the American Medical Association.

NO matter how young your child, says Dr. Isabelle L. Whittier in The Modern Hospital, it should be carefully trained and amused during convalescence from any illness. It is in the illness of childhood that the self-centred, self-pitying chronic invalids form their habits of mental idleness.

Babies under two can be taught concentration by swinging a soft red ball for a few seconds, repeating "Up, up, up," and "Down, down, down," as it is raised and lowered. The ball is then tied to the crib and left to swing.

Children of two years old may learn to manage their hands with those marvelous representations—the Montessori Insets.

Children of seven and eight who know a little geography enjoy puzzle maps.

The dressing frames teach children buttoning up, hooking and lacing, and the bead frames teach counting.

Children will often spell out their names with the lettered squares when they are too shy to say them. If there are several children, spelling matches arrange themselves spontaneously.

Useful occupations for older children are woodcarving, making dolls' furniture, rush-bottomed chairs and tables, and the tooling of leather, as well as knitting, crocheting, tatting and all kinds of simple needlework.

Sick children should never be made to finish something that no longer interests, but their next problem should be made shorter and simpler than the one over which they failed. The fact that they have failed shows that the task was wrongly chosen for them. The following are five suggested groups of occupations:

(1) For the very ill child, or one just beginning convalescence and ordered absolute rest in bed. Listening to stories and music, looking at picture books, handling large light toys, reading for short periods when convalescence has progressed.

(2) Group II is light finger work for children who are tired out by anything heavier than the least muscle play. Finger work: Simple puzzles, stringing large wooden beads, making paper chains, weaving with paper strips, dressing paper dolls, pegs and sticks.

(3) Group III is arm and finger work for children sitting up in bed or in a chair for a short time. Winding wool for dolls and balls, weaving with bobbins, colonial mats, coloring with chalks, scrapbook making, mosaic blocks, paper cutting and tearing, basket making.

(4) Group IV is for children not able to walk; it is arm work with pressure and some skill. Clay modelling, simple sewing, cutting dolls and furniture, construction sets, making paper flowers, knitting and crocheting, painting with water colors.

(5) Group V is for the walking child and consists of body work and skilled work. Quoits, ball, embroidery, blackboard drawing, action games. Stringing small glass beads strains the eyes.

Special arrangements must be made for children with strained eyes or bad sight and for those who need the exercise of special muscles.

COONLEY SEES GOOD TRADE FOR YEAR

By FRANK H. MELOON, Financial Editor.

Howard Coonley.

President Howard Coonley of the Walworth Company tells me he sees good business ahead for the rest of the year. Commenting on improved demand and better price situation in the valve and fittings industry, he says he feels conditions are more promising now for Walworth Company than for many years. There has been a marked reaction from the early Spring slump and basic price conditions have been vastly improved.

* * *

"Recovery from the early Spring depression is clearly indicated in reports for June," said Mr. Coonley, "and this is noticeable in virtually all of the allied industries. Orders for the first six months of this year have been about 18 per cent greater than for the corresponding period in 1925."

* * *

Mr. Coonley added that Walworth shipments in July are outstripping those for the first part of June, by nearly 15 per cent, and his optimistic outlook on the condition of the industry is further strengthened by the observation that "orders thus far in 1926 are such that even though they should run 30 per cent. lower in the last half than in the first half of the year, the year's total still would compare favorably with the total for 1925." To this he added that the average drop during the last four years of business in the second six months under that of the first six months has been such that, if this year is no exception, the total for 1926 will be in excess of the 1925 total by almost 15 per cent.

* * *

Walworth Company has just completed a program of "house cleaning," as Mr. Coonley describes it, by which important steps toward economy and efficiency in operation have been taken. Along with this, there has been a regrouping of sales units, the country being divided into five main territorial divisions under the jurisdiction of experienced sales executives. Sales headquarters have been opened in New York City with Prentiss L. Cooney, brother of Howard Coonley, in charge as first vice-president. P. L. Coonley was formerly vice-president of the Link Belt Company, Chicago.

* * *

"Our costs have been greatly reduced," said the Walworth president, "and I am confident that we are in the best condition in years to take advantage of a growing demand on a sound economic basis."

* * *

Ralph P. Preble, for ten years with the bond department of Paine, Webber & Co. and previously with Bonbright & Co., has become associated with A. C. Allyn & Co.

New South Station office of the National Shawmut Bank, located at No. 168 Summer street, beside the subway entrance in Dewey square, opened for business today. This makes the eighth office opened in Boston by the Shawmut. The new office is in charge of Benjamin Hill as manager and Henry Trask as assistant manager.

One Boston house, long bearish, now sees opportunities in the coppers and at other points where the market has not enjoyed a substantial rise.

In looking over signatures on bank notes, you have doubtless become aware of the fact that few signatures thereon are particularly legible. "Fancy" methods of signing one's name have in some quarters been considered a partial safeguard against forgeries. Since the typewriter has come into general use, the art of writing clearly appears to have undergone a setback. It has become a common custom to sign business letters twice, once with the typewriter, to insure their being read. I find the Massachusetts Commissioner of Banks Roy A. Hovey, has one of the prettiest signatures I have seen in a long time. Perhaps there are others who can match it?

BOOCKTON SHOE TRADE HAS A GOOD OUTLOOK

Not since the shoe strike of 1923 has business outlook in Brockton been as good as it is now. Brockton's shoe factories are running at about 90 per cent. capacity, and the majority have enough orders to assure workers steady employment for months. On Jan. 1, factories were about 50 per cent capacity.

HARVARD SEES GOOD BUSINESS

Harvard Economic Service says: A seasonal rise in rates (of about the usual magnitude) occurred in July, but money conditions are still relatively easy and continue a favorable influence in the general business situation.

Moreover, a considerable curtailment in manufacturing output has been achieved, and present evidence indicates continuance of stabilization in commodity markets.

Building construction remains active, and the data now available for new building projects indicate continuance of this activity well into the Autumn.

Favorable weather during July has improved the corn crop, which was seriously affected by the late Spring and, even though the harvests in general prove to be smaller than those of last year, there is now no reason to anticipate such a shrinkage in total crop production as would have a seriously adverse effect on Fall trade.

Thus the data which have become available during recent weeks, have on the whole shown persistence of the reassuring features in the business situation.

FINANCE

—By B. C. Forbes—

You must use your own judgment, but I, for one, never buy stocks which are being furiously manipulated.

The vast body of stocks on the New York Stock Exchange are far from feverishly active. Nor are they advancing by leaps and bounds.

The reason that a few stocks, most notably General Motors and less notably U. S. Steel, are advancing by leaps and bounds is that they are being advanced by leaps and bounds through manipulation on a terrific scale by a few professional gamblers whose means have been swollen by their successful operations during the market's rise.

Everybody knows that W. C. Durant has been a ringleader in the recent spectacular speculation in General Motors. Hints that he may once again acquire control are, however, ludicrous. Durant is speculating, not investing. There isn't one-millionth of a chance that he could, even if he desired, come anywhere near gaining control of this billion-dollar enterprise.

The identity of the other wholesale speculators has not been so definitely established. Wall Street mentions such names as Jesse A. Livermore, Whelan, and Cosden. There are now so many men able to command millions that it is easy to form pools able to force individual stocks up sensationally. Wall Street talks of the existence of quite a number of such pools at present.

Thanks mainly to the extraordinary rise in the favorite issues of the daring manipulators, supplemented by the warranted advance in railway stocks because of unprecedentedly satisfactory earnings, the average quotation for stocks has recovered to within seven points of the peak reached before the collapse occurred in February. Will that peak be passed?

Three of every four in the financial district would reply "yes." Bullishness is again rampant.

The confident expectation of tape and chart readers is that, should the previous top be eclipsed, we are in for a great bull market this Fall.

The writer purchased stocks when the market hit bottom early in March. He has begun, in a mild way, to sell at profits ranging from 20 to 40 per cent. If the rise continues, he will sell more of those issues which have advanced most. He will retain such stocks as have not been forced up.

This course may prove unwise. We may be actually on the eve of a very broad, vigorous, intoxicating, bull market. But remember Commodore Vanderbilt's philosophic pronouncement: "No man ever went broke taking a profit."

The bold plungers—as well as those who find themselves disposed to follow them—should not leave out of their reckoning the possibility, the probability, that if barefaced manipulation be carried much further, the local Federal Reserve rediscount rate will be raised.

This rate is now 3½ per cent. Call loans have ruled at 4 per cent. or higher. Time money has moved above the 4½ per cent. figure which, until recently, was the high quotation. Commercial paper rates also are at least 1 per cent. above the present rediscount charge. Lately there has been distinct expansion in commercial borrowing, while last week there was an increase in brokers' loans.

Speculators must, therefore, be prepared for sobering action by Federal Reserve Board if they carry their exploits much further.

Nothing here said is to be interpreted as suggesting any setback in general business. As a matter of fact, the trend is unmistakably in the right direction.

THREE OIL MERGERS ARE IN THE MAKING

At least three fair-sized oil mergers are known to be "on the fire," and announcement of consummation of perhaps two of these is expected this week. Most important of the transactions, pending, will bring oil properties, valued at about $80,000,000, together. One report is that transaction involving Union Oil Co. of California is imminent. Leading Pacific Coast bankers are understood to hold option on enough stock in Union Oil Associates, which controls the company, to enable them to negotiaite for sale of a majority intesrest.

Belgian Bonds

To fight against new inflation, Belgium government will convert all six months Treasury bonds and those maturing December 1, 1926, into preferred shares in the Belgian Railways Company.

Philippine Thade

Foreign trade of Philippines for fiscal year to June 30 increased $1,-872,072 over previous year. Exports were $141,944,426 and imports $117,-637,112.

CHILD DANCERS AT NORUMBEGA

Bernice Pike Ethel Berman

Residents of Revere will make pilgrimage from one Summer resort to another this week, for they will tour to Norumbega Park to see two child dancers, the pride of the Ocean City, do their stuff at the inland resort.

Bernice Pike, seven, and Baby Ethel Berman, nine, are two of the leading lights at Norumbega for the present week. They are cousins and both are nieces of the famous Kid Goodman, former Boston boxer.

Ethel is the daughter of Mrs. Frances Berman, while Bernice is the daughter of Mrs. Florence Pike, No. 575 Beach street, Revere.

TODAY

thing to increase his strength is the statement that he cannot be elected President because he happens to be a Catholic.

The people want to keep government, politics and elections apart from religious questions.

SENATOR CARAWAY tells the newspapers: "The recent arrival of many Cardinals and their sumptuous passage across the country in a monarchial train, did not help to soften matters. It served to stir up the old issues which have so long disturbed our political life."

Governor Smith is not responsible for the special train in which Cardinals went to Chicago. That was arranged by the New York Central. And it was no more monarchial than the fine private cars in which the late J. Pierpont Morgan carried bishops and distinguished laymen to a gathering of the Episcopalian Church.

THE UNIMPORTANT opinion of this writer is that President Coolidge will be renominated and re-elected. If anything could interfere with that program, it would be a series of foolish attacks on Governor Smith because of his religion. You will not find Calvin Coolidge making or instigating such attacks. He also knows politics.

THE ASSOCIATION for improving the condition of the poor says many children suffer for lack of sleep and lack of baths. No child under 15 should be awake after 9 P. M. Long sleep is necessary to perfect physical, mental and nervous development. Lack of bathing is responsible for premature death of kidney and other diseases. Unless the hundreds of millions of pores in the skin are kept open and allowed to breathe, the whole body suffers.

TWENTY PASSENGER airplanes are employed between London and Paris, carrying more than 400 passengers a day. Only 17 years ago the first flight was made across the English Channel. This country, which invented the flying machine, is slow to use it. The chief hope is in the Fords, father and son, who have the ability and the money. In Europe the government helps such important developments.

MR. FOKKER, EUROPEAN genius, who built the ship on which Commander Byrd flew over the North Pole, is in this country, and could put the United States ahead on commercial and other aviation, if the government would give him backing.

THERE ARE SERIOUS conditions in Mexico. Business is injured by the boycott instituted by Catholics, a few are killed, many injured and arrested in riots. Military guards and police are stoned at some of the churches, women leading in the attacks. The world sees in Mexico what has always happened in quarrels based on religion.

PRESIDENT CALLES issues a statement accusing the Catholic Archbishops and Bishops of abandoning their only field of action, the conscience of the Catholic, to invade the field of politics and of government and provoke moments of disorder and incite secretly or openly to rebellion.

CATHOLIC AUTHORITIES accuse President Calles of seeking to destroy the church and take its property.

President Calles replies that the Catholic Church would usurp the powers of government, and says the issue in Mexico is government of the country by Catholic Bishops and others appointed abroad, or government by public officials elected in Mexico.

It is not a pleasant fight.

New Device Combines Radio, Phonograph

A few days ago a unique devise was demonstarted in New York which combines the phonograph and the radio set, thereby offering new possibilities in musical reproduction by electrically reproducing records and amplifying the sound through the radio set.

The new device is called the Gradeon and is the invention of E. O. Thompson, Chief Engineer of David Grimes, Inc. The Gradeon can be attached to any phonograph and any radio set having a detector and two stages of audio frequency amplification. It is simple in operation and extremely easy to install, since wires or wiring is not necessary.

The Gradeon is based on an entirely new scientific principle. It is not in any way to be confused with those familiar radio attachments which merely enable you to use the horn of your phonograph as a loud speaker. This device is the exact opposite of that.

THREE UNITS.

With the Gradeon the tones from your phonograph records pass through the magnetic reproducer and then through the vacuum tubes of your radio set and then pour forth a rich tone depth and majestic volume that compares with the most expensive instruments.

The device consists of three units, which are a magnetic reproducer, a volume control and a special plug for inserting into a tube socket. Anyone can set up the device in a few seconds.

It is installed in this manner. The reproducer attached to the tone arm of the phonograph, i. e., the reproducer is the circular diaphragm to which the needle is attached, is removed and in its place the magnetic reproducer is attached to the tone arm. A needle is placed in the magnetic reproducer the same as in the regular reproducer.

The volume control is placed to one side of the turntable on the phonograph. The flexible cord connecting to the socket plug is inserted in the volume control and the plug which is fitted like the base of a vacuum tube is used to insert in the socket of the detector tube.

PRICE MODERATE

Of course the detector tube has to be removed. The radio set is turned on and the loud speaker plug in the usual jack. A record is then placed on the turntable of the phonograph and started in motion, the needle is then applied to the record as usual. The device is now connected, sound indentations on the record are converted into electrical vibration passed through the volume control, then into the detector tube socket and thence through the audio amplifier to the loud speaker.

Adjustments are not needed on the radio at all, and the only adjustment on the Gradeon is the volume control, which will regulate the volume to suit the room or the listeners' requirements. The instrument is not costly.

JAPANESE QUIT CONFERENCE

Nagaski, Japan Aug. 2 (Universal).—Dissension marked the opening session of the Pan-Asiatic Conference here, when three Japanese delegates withdrew when the Chinese representatives insisted that they be permitted to discuss "their twenty-one demands."

About fifty delegates from Japan, China, India and the Philippines were in attendance at the opening session.

What effect the withdrawal of three Japanese delegates will have on future sessions of the conference, is not known.

GOOD PROGRAM AT FENWAY

A bright and entertaining picturization of E. Phillips Oppenheim's "The Passionate Quest" is now on view at the Fenway. The featured players are May McAvoy, Willard Louis and Louise Fazenda. J. Stuart Blackton is responsible for the direction.

The story, a comedy-drama, traces the fortunes of two young men and a girl whom they both love, who leave the drab routine of their English milltown home to seek the glitter of the "lights of London" and the lure of Paris. On the same bill with "The Passionate Quest" appears "Puppets," with Milton Sills and Gertrude Olmstead.

Beginning Wednesday, Anita Stewart will be seen in her latest release, "The Lodge In The Wilderness." As companion feature, Johnny Hines's new comedy, "The Brown Derby"—adapted from the Merlin and Marlowe musical comedy—will be shown.

JOHN P. BRENNAN IS OUT FOR CONGRESS

Former State Senator John P. Brennan of Cambridge announced his candidacy for Congress as Representative from the Eighth Congressional district, taking a decided stand against the "drys" for a showdown on the modification of the Volstead act.

Not since he served as State Senator, Representative, Cambridge City Councillor and Parole Board member, appointed by President Coolidge, when the latter was Governor of this State, has Attorney Brennan engaged in political warfare.

CIRCUS FILM AT OLYMPIA

The first film production of Joseph P. Kennedy, well known Bostonian, who has lately invaded Hollywood, is titled "Bigger Than Barnum's and is now being shown at the Washington street Olympia.

The atmosphere of the sawdust ring permeates the picture from beginning to end—with a tender romance and a grippingly realistic fire scene as a thrilling climax.

The story was adapted from the Arthur Guy Empey yarn and was directed by Ralph Ince who also is responsible for the delineation of a splendid character role in the film as well. Other principal roles are taken by Viola Dana, George O'Hara and Ralph Lewis.

The vaudeville headliner for the week is the Indian seeress, Princess Wah-Letka, who gives an astonishing demonstration mind reading, prophesy and oher telepathic powers. Other acts are the Orpheum Comedy Four, in "Harmony and Hilarity; Spencer and Carroll in "Do You Remember?," and Mel Craig in "A Session With Mike." Short film subjects and special musical selections complete the bill.

FR. KILROY PROVINCIAL OF N. E. JESUITS

Official announcement of the same was made throughout the East. The new province was effected by dividing the territory of the Maryland-New York province, which to the present has had jurisdiction over the New England States.

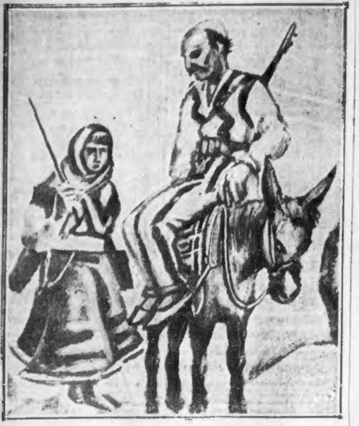
He and His Wife

This Is Balkan Civilization



BEHOLD AN ALBANIAN AND HIS WIFE TRAVELING OVER A MOUNTAIN PASS. SHE WALKS.

We read in America about the Balkans, the WARS and the problems of the Balkans, but form not a very clear idea of the Balkan PEOPLE.

This picture, one of a series made by Jan and Cora Gordon on their travels through Albania, gives YOU immediately an idea of the Albanian people.

The husband, traveling with his rifle strapped to his back, rides on the donkey's back. His wife walks behind him. It is her proud privilege to carry a stick with which she beats the donkey, that it may carry her lord and master up the hill more rapidly.

When you see this picture of Albanian civilization you don't need much other information. There are excellent people in the Balkans; there are nationalities there far better than the Albanians, who have specialized in brigandage for many centuries.

There are even well meaning men among Albanian husbands that ride on the donkey and let the wife walk, or sit at their ease at home and let the wife work. They don't KNOW any better.

And because they don't know better and because they do not care to learn, they remain where they were a thousand years ago, with little to interest them, except when a dozen waylay, rob and shoot some traveler, or when some thousands of them find excitement in fighting some other Balkan nation.

The poor wife keeps the world going. She takes good care of her children and tries to civilize even her little Albanian boys.

She saves money painfully, pitifully. As she walks over the mountain paths, driving her husband's donkey, she usually walks in her bare feet over the rough road, carrying her shoes, if she has any, in her hand to save them.

But who are we in this great country that we should criticize the Albanian husband?

Not so long ago millions of proud, high-spirited American men were giving excellent reasons why American women should be classed with idiots, dogs and red Indians, not allowed to vote.

Degradation consists in HAVING A LOW OPINION OF WOMEN; it doesn't matter much HOW you express it. To say that woman isn't fit to vote, is necessarily inferior to man, and ought to wait upon him, is no less brutal than riding on a donkey while your wife drives the donkey.

Bernard Shaw's Gate

It Appeals to American Sympathy in This Period of Snoopery

Bernard Shaw at his apartment in London is said to have a spiked iron gate with which to protect his place from intrusion.

The Englishman notoriously guards his privacy; he resents deeply any intrusion upon his personal affairs.

The more civilization advances the more there is a disposition for government to interfere with the individual. Hence the gesture of Mr. Shaw in protecting his home with a spiked iron gate is a dramatic illustration of the Englishman's determination not to be interfered with.

The tendency of all modern life is to limit one's freedom of action. You cannot spit on the sidewalk, drive on the left-hand side of the street, burn down your own house, or do a lot of other things for which you might be disposed, for the reason that they interfere with the rights of other people.

But the feeling still persists that the Englishman's house is his castle and that his individuality is inviolable.

Mr. Shaw's spiked gate is an expression of this sentiment. It appeals to American sympathy in this period of snoopery.

One Big Miracle

Wouldn't That Be Fine?

Earth's youngest evangelist, Uldine Mabelle Utley, fourteen years old, converted several sinners in New York City, and says, "I will go back next Fall and get more."

A special miracle, it seems, made "Sister Uldine" a preacher. At the age of nine, with her grandfather, she started for a theatre to rehearse. But, says she, "God locked the door, performing a miracle to keep me out." Unable to get into the theatre, she went to Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson's revival meeting and was converted.

How glorious would be one wholesale miracle that would cover the earth, convert and make everybody permanently good.

SNOOPERS BOTHER BUSINESS MEN

By DR. FRANK CRANE

MUCH has been said lately in the public press about "snoopers."

This means people who are investigating violators of the prohibition amendment.

We have other snoopers, however, who are just as bothersome and much more injurious to business.

They are the snoopers who come around and investigate a man's or a concern's affairs for the income tax.

The income tax implies snooping. It depends for its enforcement at the last upon a number of legally authorized spies.

These spies make it a business to investigate everyone's books and papers, and it is rumored about some of them that they are not always everything that might be asked of them. Unfortunately they are human and a certain portion of them look for a bonus or present. Thus the business man is hampered in his affairs, as he knows that his sworn statement about his income in the first place is not going to be accepted by the government.

The income tax was a war measure and with the cessation of the war it should have been abandoned. It is not a proper tax, and one upon which the United States should not depend for its support even in part.

Many other ways of taxation, such as the sales tax and the land tax, have more to be said in their favor.

The income tax was socialistic or communistic in its origin and it is oppressive in its continuance. It is a part of the plan of certain parties to kill the goose that lays the golden egg. For all the profits in this country arise from successful business men, and those business men should be encouraged and not hampered in their prosperity.

It is bad enough to have people snooping about and smelling your breath to detect whether or not you are using liquor. But it is far more detrimental to business to have other persons snooping about to see how much money you have made and how you have made it.

ONLY THOSE ARE YOUNG WHO FEEL YOUNG–THESE DAYS

Your father was an old man at fifty, wasn't he?

He believed he was old and he felt old and you thought he acted old.

But that is no reason why you should think yourself antiquated as you near the half century mark.

Men are younger at fifty today than in your father's time.

What have years to do with your age if you have kept well.

It would be a very good thing if some men would forget their age.

You unconsciously go on the thought that you cannot undertake certain important steps in business or educational equipment because you are nearing the line which you have always looked upon as "ancient."

Actually you are not any more "ancient" than you wish to be.

Youth is a matter of thought.

If you cannot get the viewpoint of youth you are "ancient" even though you are not more than twenty-five.

Understanding is what links persons together in mutual friendship.

Being able to keep apace with progress is what keeps a man or a woman young.

Don't get too lazy to stay young.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

WE'VE been talking about the Christophers and the way they are raising the little girl.

The Christophers are poor. They live in a little cottage behind an apartment house, pretty close uptown. It isn't what would be described as an ideal location for a child. Yet there are many children there—husky, noisy little rascals. They fill the alleys behind the apartment houses and the seats in the big, shabby school.

Mama Christopher doesn't like those children. "I don't want you to play with them,' she says to little Chrissie. "Hurry right home after school and I will read to you or maybe we will go for a walk in the park and after dinner daddy will help you with your lessons and I will show you a new embroidery stitch."

So little Chrissie hurries home after school and reads with mother. Her reading is very advanced for a twelve-year-old little girl. She speaks French quite nicely, too, and every Thursday afternoon mother escorts her all the way across the town to "a nice dancing class." Besides that there are music lessons which mother gives her, and this Summer vacation Chrissie is to be allowed to take swimming lessons.

Mama Christopher wants little Chrissie to grow up to be "a lady" and she thinks this is the way to go about it. But Daddy Christopher doesn't agree with her. He thinks that all the French and dancing lessons in the world won't make up for the lack of youthful companionship. And he says:

She'll Have to Work

"If we stay poor, as we probably will, Chrissie will have to work some day. And she'll have such superior ideas about herself that she won't be able to get along with anyone. And if we do get out of the hole we're in she won't be able to get along with people, for she'll never have associated with any."

But Mama Christopher retorts—"Better no companions than bad ones"—

Mama Christopher's lady friend agrees with her. "The child should certainly be kept by herself, instead of being allowed to play with the riff-raff of a cheap neighborhood. What possible good could that class give her, and look at the harm they would do. Maybe they are not actually bad children but they ARE riff-raff and they can put nothing into her life but trash which she will never outgrow."

So now Dadd Christopher has called me in for referee. Do I believe Chrissie should be allowed to play with "common kids?"

No Real Difference

I MOST CERTAINLY DO. It all depends upon what one calls "common." Some of the biggest men in the country came from humble homes. There are stupid youngsters, vulgar youngsters, dishonest youngsters, malicious youngsters, but these are as often of "cultured" parents as of the great unwashed.

ELSIE ROBINSON
SHE NEEDS TO PLAY WITH COMMON KIDS.

In fact, honesty compels me to admit that little Algernon Percival Van de Vere is much more apt to be cussed than young Paddy Mahoney. And for a very logical reason. Algernon is petted and spoiled. However charming his manners he is bound to feel that he has special privileges and exemptions. Whereas Paddy promptly has the cussedness kicked out of him if he tries to put anything over on his young associates.

And there never yet was a youngster who didn't need the rough discipline which other youngsters, AND OTHER YOUNGSTERS ALONE, can administer.

If Chrissie were mine she would play with those common kids. Also, I would take those same youngsters into my home and give them the benefit of some of the culture which I desired for little Chrissie. And thereby I would try to teach her that the greatest culture of all is the ability to love and understand and work with your fellow man.

PAINTINGS REVEAL SOLAR ECLIPSES

By Garrett P. Serviss,

Noted Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

IN the beautiful new Astronomic Hall of the American Museum of Natural History are realistic paintings of solar eclipses. These call popular attention to certain important phenomena which, though always before the eyes are seldom noticed or understood.

One of these is the effect upon the apparent direction of the axes and the equator of the sun produced by the change of their relation to the horizon of the observer on the earth, as the daily rotation of the latter causes the sun to appear to rise in the east, to traverse the sky westwardy, crossing the meridian at noon, and to set in the west.

Three notable eclipses have been chosen for representation in Mr. Butler's fine paintings, and they have been grouped in a "triptych" in such a way that they illustrate incidentally the phenomenon mentioned.

Beginning with the picture at the left of the triptych, we see the eclipse of June, 1918, occurring, at the point where the observer was placed, at about 4 p. m.

Similar Slope

Consequently the sun was in the afternoon sky, and its north pole was inclined toward the observer's right while its equator sloped downward in the same direction. The main axis of the corona, which always shows a more or less decided extension parallel with the solar equator exhibits a similar slope.

Looking next at the central picture, we see the eclipse of September, 1923, which occurred about 1 p. m., so that the sun was near the meridian, with the axis of the corona horizontal or parallel with the observer's horizon.

In the picture on the right of the triptych, the eclipse of January, 1925, is represented. As this occurred soon after 9 a. m., the sun in the morning sky had its north pole apparently leaning toward the left, and, of course, the axis of the corona shows the same slope.

It requires some such indicating finger to call the attention of persons not accustomed to astronomical observation, to this curious apparent nodding of the sun's polar axis first toward the East and last toward the West, as it crosses the sky from its rising to its setting.

Lack of knowledge of this fact often causes error as to the location of spots on the sun, and as to the direction of movement of objects in the sky such as meteors.

Assuming, for simplicity, that the sun's polar axis is always vertical at noon, then its apparent position, and the slope of the solar equator with reference to the horizon, are represented with sufficient accuracy for general purposes for our diagram which is drawn for a mean latitude of 40 degrees North.

When Sun Rises

When the sun rises, its North pole is inclined far over toward the observer's East, and its equator lies at a high angle to the horizon. During the forenoon, as the sun approaches the meridian, its axis straightens upward, and its equator becomes less sloping to the horizon.

Arrived on the noon line the solar axis stands vertical, and the equator is horizontal. During the afternoon the reverse changes take place and at setting the sun's north pole appears to slope as much westward from the meridian as it did eastward at sunrise.

Thus a conspicuous spot that appeared at the "top" of the sun in the morning will be at the "bottom" in the evening.

The same effects are produced upon the orientation of the moon. In this case they are conspicuously shown by the changing slope of the crescent figure of the new or the old moon with reference to the horizon.

Another very informing feature of the eclipse pictures is that they represent the characteristic shape and appearance of the corona at different stages in the sunspot period.

The 1918 eclipse occurred near a sunspot maximum, that of 1923 close to a minimum, and that of 1925 at a minimum, but when a new period was also beginning.

The triptych of science suits the age in which it appears as well as did the very different ones of former times.

'You Said It, Marceline!'

By MARCELINE D'ALROY

ON "MATRIMONIAL PITCH AND TOSS"

MATRIMONY is literally
A TOSS-UP. It seems it's HEADS the WIFE WINS,
And then the HUSBAND
LOSES.
But does that DISMAY
The HONEST MALE?
Far from it.
The MAN whose wife
BEATS HIM
At his OWN GAME,
Or HERS, or ANY OLD GAME, for that Matter has a SMART WIFE,
And HE must step lively
To KEEP her.
So he DASHES OUT and
Makes MORE PENNIES
For HIS WIFE to toss
Nonchalantly in the AIR.
SOME men, of course,
PREFER to KID their WIVES instead of THEMSELVES. They don't
Only LET HER GET AWAY
With the GAME, but they CONGRATULATE her on it.
The point is:
DO WOMEN REALLY LIKE MEN LIKE THAT?
Or, can't they help it?
